Roosevelt Backs Slum Clearance, Housing Program

Three-Point Outline of Local Community Control of Work Anticipated; Loans for Repairs,

Modernization Urged.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Plans for a 10-year federal low-cost housing and slum clearance program today received the backing of President Roosevelt.

In a conference with Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, and Peter Grimm, the housing advisor, Mr. Roosevelt approved drafting of legislation intended to:

1. Provide for loans and grants to local communities to wipe out slums.
2. Encourage private construction of homes under $5,000 by increasing government insurance of mortgages up to 90 per cent of the appraised value.
3. Extend authority to insure loans for modernization and repair of homes.

Wagner said the federal appropriation for the first year "certainly" would not have to exceed $300,000,000 to $400,000,000. He will handle the legislation in congress, introducing it before March 1.

No decision was reached whether to set up one single housing agency to carry out activities now being conducted by five—the Federal Housing Administration, Public Works Administration, Home Owners' Loan Corporation, Rural Resettlement Administration, and the Reconstruction Corporation.

There have been signs of behind-the-scenes contentions among the agencies as to which should do the work. Grimm said he personally did not favor merging them.

Approval by the President of the 10-year program formulated by Wagner and Grimm after many conferences was said to mark the first definite New Deal housing policy. It was urged so as to give private contractors concrete knowledge of the administration's plans.

In carrying out the slum clearance program local communities would have full control and management. Wagner emphasized that initiation of the projects must come from them.

The federal financial aid, the New Yorker said, would be extended through a combination of grants and loans at low interest rates and serious injuries to at least a half dozen others today.

The blast smashed out windows in a dozen other buildings in the vicinity, summoned fire equipment from all over the stockyard region, and led to a call for police reserves. Firemen said they added three of the sever from the wrecked building, the four others walking out.

AID TO GOOD WILL SEEN IN CONTEST

Rifle Clubs Here and in Moscow Plan Sporting
'Good Neighbor' Gesture.

The crack of rifles and the spatter of bullets, that age-old accompaniment to the discordant strains of international hatred and wholesale slaughter will sound a new note in Atlanta Sunday—the promotion of international good will.

Nevae before the acid odor of powder pervaded the rooms where representatives of two nations were cementing bonds of friendship, but in Atlanta Sunday and in Moscow next Tuesday this novelty will be introduced.

Atlanta and Moscow, geographically half a world apart, will be brought closer together Sunday as these crackling notes from rifles when the picked team from the Atlanta Rifle Club shows what it can do to the bull's eyes.

Russians Shoot Tuesday.

Tuesday, the echo will sound in Moscow when the picked team of the Kamenex Central Shooting Club tries to do more things to the bull's eyes with the same amount of bullets.

This rifle match Sunday and Tuesday is attracting lively interest in Moscow. Yesterday, J. D. Phillips, secretary of the Atlanta Rifle Club, received a telegram from the Moscow Ivestia, a leading newspaper in the Russian capital, asking full information to be relayed to his newspaper.

Russia, according to Mr. Phillips, goes in for shooting as America goes in for golf. Rifle clubs in that country have a total membership of about 800,000 members.

Brigade Commander Vladimir A. Burzin, military attaché of the Soviet embassy at Washington, who will arrive in Atlanta Saturday afternoon to act as official observer in the Atlanta Rifle Club's shoot Sunday, is confident that the Russian team will win.

USE OF BOMBERS IN JAP-SINO CLASH AROUSSES FAR EAST

Nippon's War Minister Says Concentration of Power in Orient Is Dangerous Precedent.

TOKYO, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Japanese military reports that outer Mongolia, under the wing of Soviet Russia, used bombing planes in the latest border clash with Manchoukuo-Japanese troops added tenness tonight to a situation already delicate.

Military reports from the border said the planes attempted to bomb a Japanese-Manchoukuo column which participated in what was called the biggest battle of the year along the frontier.

A Japanese officer and seven Japanese soldiers, general headquarters at Heikung, capital of the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchoukuo reported, were killed in the clash.

A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Heikung said the Manchoukuo government was taking an extremely grave view of the incident because "the enemy used bombing planes."

Accounts Differ.

This attitude was expressed by a spokesman for the Manchoukuo foreign office. Accounts here differed as to whether two or three planes were used and whether they were Russian or outer Mongolian.

The encounter took place at Olahodka, which is in disputed territory. A Japanese-Manchoukuo column had been sent to retake the post.

Japan's minister of war, Yoshiyuki Kawashima, expressed concern today over what he called a huge Soviet concentration of military power in the far east, close to Manchoukuo's borders.

He asserted Japan does not plan to take military initiative against Russia, but added:

"If events move in such a way as to threaten our security, we will be forced to take action."

Final Session of 'Foods on Parade' At Georgia Theater This Morning

Miss Chambers Has Reserved Enticing Array of Recipes for Lecture Titled "Happy Endings." Models Will Display Fashions Again Today.

"Happy Endings," the title of this morning's final session of "Foods on Parade," The Constitution's record-breaking cooking school, promises to be exactly that, from all indications yesterday when approximately 3,000 Atlanta women braved rain and gloomy skies to enjoy the sparkling entertainment of style fashions and food at the presentation.

Even the sponsors of "Foods on Parade," familiar with the entertaining and informative nature of the cooking school, were surprised at the unprecedented attendance records set up by Atlanta women in spite of the bad weather.

Miss Chambers, nationally known culinary expert, who is making "Foods on Parade" the feature event of the year for Atlanta women, demonstrated more of her unrivaled dishes yesterday morning, but saved an enticing array of economical and easily prepared recipes for this morning's session.

Doors will open again this morning at 8 o'clock at the theater, with the fashion show at 8:40 o'clock and the cooking classes at 9 o'clock.

Miss Chambers is in favor of taking the regular family meals a little more of enjoyment, and her demonstration this morning at the Georgia theater.

When we say a thing looks good enough to eat," says Miss Chambers. "The appearance of food is important."

NOTED AUTHORITY ON CONSTITUTION DEMANDS SESSION

Ex-Congressman Fleming, of Augusta, Cites Basic State Laws in Attack on Governor.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 13.—In a spirited attack on Governor Talmadge for refusing to call an extra session of the legislature to enact an appropriations bill, former Congressman William H. Fleming, of Augusta, warns that "our Governor intends to combine in himself executive and legislative functions, and shut his eyes to what the judiciary may have to say after the coup has been executed."

Mr. Fleming, long recognized as one of the leading constitutional authorities of the state, takes the position that under the constitution the Governor has been obligated ever since the last session, when no appropriations bill was passed, to call an extra session for this purpose. He further cites the provision of the constitution that one branch of the government shall not infringe upon the rights of another, and says that Talmadge in attempting to operate the state government without an appropriations bill is assuming powers specifically restricted to the legislature.

His statement in full is as follows:

AN UNPRECEDENTED SITUATION IN GEORGIA POLITICS.

By WILLIAM H. FLEMING.

At the organization of our state in 1778 as a representative democratic republic our wise forefathers followed the American system of adopting a written constitution dividing the government into three departments, legislative, executive and judicial, which were to remain distinct in their operations as far as the exigencies of the public welfare would permit.

In the constitution of 1798 this separation of powers was further defined.

Hornsby Placed In Chief's Post Pending Hearing

Interviews Bruno at Jail

SAMUEL S. LEIBOWITZ.

LEIBOWITZ CRACKS HAUPTMANN CALM

Attorney Deems Prison
Interview Satisfactory;
Second Talk Scheduled.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 13.—(UP)—Samuel Leibowitz, the nation's best-known criminal lawyer, cracked Bruno Richard Hauptmann's nerve today in a one-hour interview that may change the whole line of defense for the convicted murderer of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

The attorney came out of the death house of Trenton state prison, a wide smile on his face, and said: "It was a very satisfactory interview. Bruno broke down and cried like a child. I'm going to see him again Sunday."

Whether Leibowitz got the one thing he wanted—a confession, or at least some additional information about the crime—he would not say.

"Did you get a confession?" someone shouted at him as he stood on the sidewalk outside the prison, snow whipping into his face.

No comment," Leibowitz replied.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann was with him, and she seemed more cheerful than at any time since Governor Harold G. Hoffman snatched Hauptmann away from death with a 30-day reprieve 28 hours before he was to be executed.

"Fish Stories" Scored.

Leibowitz, who has served 112 men from the electric chair, had said that he would not interest himself in Hauptmann's behalf unless the prisoner changed his story. The lawyer contends one man could not have committed the crime, but he also contends that the defense told "fish stories" on the witness stand at Flemington.

The fateful interview across the bars of cell No. 9 of the death house occurred on the 12th anniversary of Hauptmann's conviction. At the time Leibowitz and Hauptmann were talking, it was precisely a year ago—to the day, hour and minute—that the convicted murderer was hanged.

Assistant, A. J. Holcombe, Ordered Before Board for Reprimand; Mc-Crary Is Named To Head Detective Bureau.

CHIEF "FAILURE," RICHARDS AVERS

Couch Loses Motion To Have Other Officers
Censured for Part in Alleged Gambling.

Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant and his first assistant, A. Lamar Poole, chief of detectives, were suspended early this morning by the police committee of city council and ordered to face charges of incompetence and inefficiency.

Sturdivant also was charged specifically with returning illegally impounded liquor cars to Ralph Owens, alleged bootlegger.

Assistant Chief of Police A. J. Holcombe was ordered before the committee for a reprimand for failing to make proper investigation of reports that gaming was in progress at the station house when out-of-town officers were in Atlanta aiding in the handling of crowds on November 29, Roosevelt day in Atlanta.

Lieutenant M. A. Hornsby was designated as acting chief of police, and Lieutenant C. E. McCrary was placed in charge of the detective department pending disposition of charges against Sturdivant and Poole.

Action Is Surprise.

Committee action came as a surprise move and followed the regular committee session. The charges against Poole were regarded as an attempt to "wipe out factionalism in the department."

Councilman Alvin L. Richards, committee member, initiated the motion against Sturdivant with the assertion: "He is a complete failure as a chief of police. He was a crack detective and I would like to see him keep his connection with the department. I don't think he's dishonest. He's been in the detective department so long and has associated with crooks so long that he doesn't seem to be able to get away from it."

"I move that charges of incompetency, inefficiency and illegal release of liquor cars to Ralph Owens be preferred against him. Couch seconded the motion, and on roll call all committee members with the exception of Councilman Horace M. Rantlin, changed his vote. Rantlin subsequently changed his vote.

Couch lost a move to censure Captain Sturdivant.

THESE FACTS ABOUT BRAN HAVE BEEN PROVED BY TESTS

Supplies Gently Acting "Bulk" to Aid Regular Habits

Now and then, in talking with your friends, the subject of bran has come up. So that real facts might replace unsupported opinions, the Kellogg Company has aided for some years research in leading nutrition laboratories.

Studies made on a group of healthy women showed that two tablespoonfuls of bran daily continued to relieve constipation over a period of months. How different from cathartics—where dosage often must be increased.

Another series of tests on men indicated that with some people, the "bulk" in bran was much more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Further tests showed that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provided vitamin B and iron as well as "bulk." This "bulk" absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system—the right way to correct constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Either as a cereal, with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. It is a natural laxative food. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk."

100 Grim-Faced Convicts Witness Execution of Hog in Prison Preview

Spectators Turn Pale as Tiny Puff of Smoke Snuffs Out Life of Animal; Condemned Prisoner Only Jokes.

CANON CITY, Col., Feb. 13.—(AP)—One hundred grim-visaged convicts watched a tiny puff of white smoke kill a hog today in a "preview" of a prison execution.

The spectators were silent as to their reactions, but the man who will enter the death chamber to die tomorrow night jested.

"Why didn't you let me in on the show?" asked squat, swarthy Otis McDaniels, 30, convicted killer of two men.

Pressed closely against tiny windows in the squat little death house, the group invited to witness the test grew pale as they saw the pig die in 10 seconds after the tiny column of "smoke" curled upward.

Several had barely missed the same fate. Walter Reppin, Newark, N. J., youth, once held a "ticket" to the death chamber and it was "cancelled" only at the last moment. Then he won a second trial and life imprisonment.

INTEREST IN POLITICS
URGED OF U. S. WOMEN

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Henry Bentley, chairman of the Cincinnati charter committee, today characterized women as the nearest group approaching "leisure class" in the United States, and urged them to take the same interest in politics the English leisure class does.

The Cincinnati addressed a non-partisan woman congress, sponsored by a Chicago newspaper.

By "leisure class" Bentley explained he meant a group that is freed from compulsion in the choice of its endeavors.

Lady Nancy Astor, American-born member of England's parliament, addressed the women from London by short wave radio. She advocated women work hard in behalf of world peace.

He was sentenced to die for the killing of Sheriff W. W. Dunlap, shot to death as he was taking Otis and his 18-year-old brother, Herbert, to Court, Col., for arraignment on a murder charge. The brothers had been accused of leaving James Westfall, aged Montezuma county sheepman, to die of starvation in his cabin after they robbed him and bound and gagged him.

GRAND JURY RECEIVES CASE AGAINST MILNE

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The case of Caleb Milne IV, whose hoax kidnapping last December occasioned a widespread search for him, was presented to the federal grand jury today.

The government indicated an indictment will be asked on the allegation that young Milne, who admitted he engineered the "kidnaping," used the mails in an attempt to defraud.

He sent a letter to a grandparent, Caleb Jones Milne Jr., of Philadelphia, demanding ransom of $20,000 for his release, but made no effect to actually collect the money.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES
BY Sally Siver

Perhaps, there is no better way to demonstrate your culinary skill to your family and friends than to serve them delicious apple dumplings with caramel sauce. They are tempting to look at, tempting to eat, with their rich, golden brown butter crust, filled with spicy flavored apples, served with tall glasses of fresh milk. They are a pleasing combination for refreshments, a satisfying dessert for a simple meal.

We recommend this recipe for apple dumplings because they are so feathery light. Butter for shortening—that's important, because butter pastry is easily digested, so delicate in flavor—so flaky light. And—just the right mixture of apples, sugar and spices—topped with a rich caramel sauce.

Here are the tricks of making good butter crust. The dough is chilled in the refrigerator before rolling it out. It is combined with rosy, crisp apples sliced into the center of the pastry squares, topped with sugar and spice and a generous piece of butter, for flavor. The edges of the pastry squares are moistened with milk or slightly beaten egg which the corners are brought together on top and pressed firmly together. They are baked in a hot oven, 475 degrees F., for 15 minutes to brown the crust, then the heat is reduced to 300 degrees for 30 minutes or until apples are tender. Serve hot with caramel sauce.

You may like to cover the bottom of a baking pan with a mixture of brown sugar and water syrup and place the dumplings in the pan, smooth side up, and bake slowly, basting with the syrup. When baked, the dumplings are filled with rich, mellow goodness. They are particularly nice baked in syrup and served with foamy butter sauce.

To make apple dumplings use: 2 cups pastry flour, 10 tablespoons butter (1-2 cup plus 2 tablespoons), about 6 tablespoons ice water, 6 medium-sized apples, pared, cut fine, 2-3 cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon flour, 3 tablespoons butter for topping.

Sift flour and measure. Cut the butter, using two knives or a dough blender, until of consistency of wheat grains. Add the water gradually, tossing lightly together with a fork until all the fat-flour particles are moistened. Press gently into a ball and place in refrigerator to chill while preparing apples. Remove pie dough from refrigerator and roll out to slightly less than 1-8-inch thickness. Cut into 6 to 7-inch squares. In center of each square place 2 to 3 heaping tablespoons of the apple. FIREMEN WILL MEET TO AIR VIEWS ON CUT

Chief Will Hear Expressions From Men on Mandamus Against City.

Atlanta firemen will express their wishes regarding the mandamus action brought in their behalf by A. Steve Nance and J. A. Harper to force the city to restore a 10 per cent cut in their salaries.

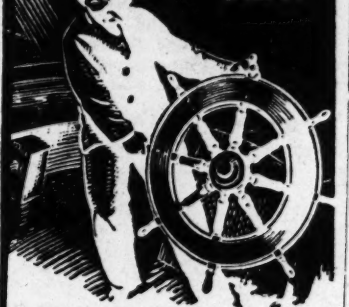

Following a conference yesterday between Mayor Key and Chief O. J. Parker, of the fire department, the chief asserted he will ask firemen to express their views at two meetings to be held next week. One-half of the firemen will assemble next Tuesday morning and the other half Wednesday morning. A poll will be taken and results of the balloting will be announced.

The mandamus action has been postponed in Fulton county superior court where it was filed, but probably will be called sometime the latter part of next week. City legal representatives contend that Nance and Harper have no cause for action and have no standing in court as they have lost no money through application of the salary slashes imposed on firemen.

Nance is president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, and Harper is president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

How to make wonderful Waffles

1. Measure 2 cups Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour into mixing bowl.

In another bowl beat 1 egg and combine with 2 cups milk or water.

Pour liquid and 2 table-spoons melted butter or shortening into flour. Beat smooth. This makes six waffles.

2. Have waffle iron hot enough to bake a waffle perfectly in three minutes.

3. Grease iron lightly with paraffin after heating. Grease only once.

4. Serve waffles as soon as done. Never stack. Stacking spoils crispness.

NEW MENU SERVICE FEATURED BY GROCERS

ONE order to your grocer brings you any item you need for this low-cost meal. Complete with printed, easy directions.

It's so easy for you to get waffles light and well-done because Aunt Jemima's special blend guarantees far more fluffiness than ordinary bread or biscuit flour. Aunt Jemima's contains only about half the amount of gluten of ordinary flour. And gluten is the taffy-like substance in flour that resists heat and slows up the baking process. That's why, with only about half the gluten of ordinary flour, Aunt Jemima's waffles come out so perfectly done, so tender, fluffy and light in the few short minutes they are on the fire.

An Aunt Jemima waffle, a square of butter and one ounce of syrup are only 396 calories. Yet standard diets permit a total of 2,000 to 4,000 calories in the three daily meals. Have Aunt Jemima's Magic Menu for the next meal.

LINDER GOES WILD AGAIN

Georgia's irresponsible and irrepressible commissioner of agriculture, the Hon. Tom Linder, author some months ago of the amazing statement that "if the yoke of republicanism cannot be thrown off any other way, Georgia can secede from the Union," maintains his record for making unwise and dangerous utterances when, in replying to the demand that fees collected by his department be put in the state treasury, he says: "What's the use of talking about nothing when there are so many big things going on?"

The commissioner does not realize that nothing could be more serious nor more fundamentally necessary to the welfare of the state government than a correct accounting and checking of all moneys received and expended by the state. In order that a safe and businesslike handling of the state's revenues may be assured, the law specifically provides that all moneys received by any department must be promptly turned into the treasury—and yet the public today does not know, and there seems to be no way to find out, how much money that should be in the state treasury is in the hands of the commissioner of agriculture.

Mr. Linder may not think so, but such a situation is fraught with the possibility of very serious consequences. Naturally he does not want to talk about it, if he has made up his mind to defy the law and retain possession of money that belongs in the state treasury. It is not difficult to realize that in his dangerous position Mr. Linder would prefer to have the public mind of the state concentrated not on the question of the careful and legal handling of the public revenues but on an erudite discussion of such subjects of whether the moon is made of green cheese, the much mooted love life of a frog, or the economic waste of having holes in doughnuts, or why men prefer blondes.

But it will not be possible to divert the attention of the people of Georgia from the main issue—why it is that the state law is not being complied with by every state department turning into the treasury all moneys collected, assuring that they will be expended through the treasury on duly approved warrants.

There is universal commendation of the action of State Treasurer Hamilton in calling to the attention of the heads of these departments the serious possibilities to them from continued defiance of the law.

The attempt to operate the state without an appropriations bill is a unique experiment, but it does not justify the flaunting of the law through the maneuvering of revenue-producing departments to retain and expend money they have no right to keep.

The law must be complied with. If such compliance cannot be secured voluntarily, it can be enforced through the courts.

Who remembers when all a congressman had to worry about was whether the trunk for the winter cruise was leakproof?

THE GOVERNOR'S DUTY

In a forceful statement, appearing elsewhere in this issue, former Congressman William H. Fleming, of Augusta, holds that it is clearly the duty of the Governor to call an extra session of the legislature following the failure of the last regular session to adopt an appropriations bill.

Mr. Fleming is an outstanding constitutional authority.

He emphasizes that not only does the constitution obligate the Governor to call the general assembly in special session when such an emergency as now exists arises, but that it specifically seeks to guard against the executive, or any other branch of the government, infringing upon the rights and powers of the legislature or the judicial branches.

Thus Governor Talmadge in his stubborn refusal to call the general assembly in special session to cope with the emergency arising from the lack of an appropriations bill to cover the operations of the state during the present year, not only is violating an obligation placed upon him by the constitution, but in attempting to operate the state without an appropriations bill is acting in further defiance of the constitution by attempting to perform a duty specifically placed upon the legislative branch of the state government.

Mr. Fleming fears that the Governor is not only planning to combine in himself both executive and legislative functions, but further to "shut his eyes to what the judiciary may have to say after the coup has been executed."

If the Governor has any such plan in mind, it will prove, in the long run, to be the greatest mistake he ever made.

That an emergency exists even the Governor admits. The constitution clearly and specifically points the way to meet such an emergency and, by inference at least, warns that if this step is not taken the executive will be infringing upon the prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government.

The duty of the Governor is clear now as former Congressman Fleming cites it has been since the adjournment of the last session of the legislature. If he does not live up to that duty, he will have only himself to blame when he finds himself in the inevitable morass of public disapproval, governmental uncertainty and legal battles.

LET IT ALONE
The democratic members of congress should not permit themselves to be ensnared into any move to limit the powers of the supreme court, as is suggested by Senator Norris, in an attack upon the court in which he holds that "congress can remedy the situation if it has the courage to do it."

The United States has grown and prospered for a century and a half, emerging from an outpost of civilization with a few million inhabitants to the most prosperous country of the world.

During that progress the constitution has been the great Palladium of our liberty—and of all sections of the country the south should be most interested in safeguarding it.

The attempt to throttle the supreme court is an effort to undermine the very foundation laid by our forefathers for the continuance of liberty and the prevention of public wrongs.

The democratic members of congress must not allow themselves to be led into the quagmire of uncertainty which would be created should such a suggestion as that voiced by Senator Norris be put into effect.

Certainly they can be depended upon not to exchange the safety and security of the past century and a half for the will-o'-the-wisp schemes of those unsatisfied with the great charter upon which the American government is founded.

Three weeks of bitter cold are a bit long for a "snap." But then, five years was something new in emergencies.

Water Service in Desert.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt.—The Italians at El Sollum on the Egypt-Libya border, have no water. They must cross into the British zone to get a supply at the wells of Ramia. They come on Wednesday and Monday. Two months ago it took them a half hour, once a week to tank up. Now it takes a full 24 hours. This means that their forces have quadrupled in Libya. Five motorized divisions, one of them a famous Alpine corps, and all five composed of white men from Italy, are camped beyond the thick barbed-wire fence which separates the British and Italian lines. They signalled at day by means of a white flag that they wanted to come over. Some portable sections of the barbed-wire fence were removed and the provisions for the well began, an Egyptian patrol in the lead and a new British non-commissioned officer watching that none of the Italians were armed. There was not the slightest shadow of a doubt that everything went businesslike and matter-of-fact. No movie operators around, so no burrurs for the Duce either.

Half an hour later an Italian battle plane roared overhead. It flew along the fence at no greater height than 150 yards. British soldiers watched the machine move out of curiosity that suspicious. The tank-pauls were not taken off the muzzles of the anti-aircraft guns and the machine was soon swallowed up in the desert. By rising a couple of thousand feet on a day of good visibility British aerial observers have spotted the mechanical army equipment of the Italians. They are five miles away. The blackshirts have a formidable array of tanks and armored cars whirling in readiness. Five hundred tanks, it was told, were there on December 22. It was told at least one whole division, a mechanized division, has arrived.

I pretended that this technical superiority worried me and I said to a captain from Lancashire: "If ever they came over, you wouldn't be able to hold them up long. You don't have half the men they have."

"You forget the Egyptian customs service," he answered. "The British are the Almirah, not to speak of Balbo or Friend Doochay!" The Italians have easily twice as much equipment as the British and the Egyptians combine in the western desert, except in bombing planes.

I was anxious to get into conversation with the water carriers at Ramia. But there exists a tacit understanding that no Italian soldier must be questioned so long as hostilities have not broken out. The Egyptian patrols kept up a strict surveillance. It would not have been wise to create an incident. The Egyptian soldier is like the Turk; he never jokes.

The most remarkable feature of the all-day long coming and going of the mail carriers is the total absence of British officers. The British showed themselves. "Where are they?" I questioned.

"This is the day the gentlemen develop their correspondence. The U. O. is developing snailshells in the desert. For the Holy Paul's sake, don't you go disturbing him!" warned an Irish non-com.

I had luck in getting an automobile to carry me out from the British zone to El Sollum. We covered the distance in 10 hours. During my two days' stay in the camp I was commanded the car and all I could get back was a camel. There is a sura in the Koran which tells the believers to take note how wonderfully those beasts are made by Allah and how comfortably the son of the Prophet can ride on their back. This passage in Arabic holy writ makes me wonder whether Mohammed, who wrote the Koran, ever sat two days straight on a camel.

The Greek pharmacist who sold me the ointment said not to worry if I am a little late, but to put more on all the time. I am still at it.

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

LOVERS' DAY.

Many fond hearts will say "Good Morning" today with beautiful tokens of remembrance. St. Valentine's Day takes us back to an old festival in the Roman Lupercalia. It was known as "Lovers' Day." Chaucer and Shakespeare have passages identifying the tradition. The tradition has survived the challenge of time in England as in no other part of the world, though on the continent it has been widely observed, and in our country as well.

Do you not remember when you saved your pennies to buy a valentine for your sweetheart? And how happy you were in the thought of that gift, even the sacrifice involved? No gift is sweeter in remembrance that did not have within it the elements of sacrifice. Perhaps you had to forego something you would have enjoyed, but it was a deeper joy to make that gift on Valentine Day to your valentine!

I hope we shall never lose the romance of youth. It is something true and precious. Life becomes terribly drab when romance is smothered. Let us, therefore, give place to the flow of gentle thoughts today—thoughts that give us a chance in our heart that Valentine Day?

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

STREAMLINING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The snappiest piece of legislative speeding exhibited in congress lately was performed on the pending Robinson-Patman business regulation bill. It was a complete answer to everyone who has been complaining about congressional red tape.

Few senators had even heard of the bill, except by hearsay, until they half awoke a few days ago and found it proposing something vaguely reminiscent of NRA, and ready for passage. No one knew exactly how it got up front like that. Probably no one will ever find out for sure, but enough can be discovered to indicate the progress that has lately been made in lawmaking.

Congress is developing a technique for streamlining bills in conformity to the rest of the streamlined world.

AMPLIFICATION A bill generally like this one was proposed last May by Democratic Floor Leader Robinson. It was framed to let chain stores by letting the Federal Trade Commission clamp down on their trade practices which cheapen prices.

Exactly where the original draft came from is a matter of speculation. But if you lay one finger on a certain group of wholesalers who represent about 15 per cent of that industry, and the other on the Federal Trade Commission, you will not be far wrong.

That bill snooted without hearings in the senate judiciary committee for eight months. It emerged February 13 with the whole original bill stricken out and a completely new bill inserted.

Then senators sat up and took notice that it would regulate, not only chain stores, but apparently "any person engaged in commerce" in the United States, which would include all businessmen and all who think they are businessmen.

SIRE The new draft had been composed in private by Senator Marvel Logan. Logan reported it was a sound measure and should not be delayed to hear what others might think of it. Investigations of the same subject (but not of this bill) had been conducted by the house, FTC and others.

Doubtful senators reached for their congressional directories and noticed that Senator Logan's biography indicated his business experience had been gained as chairman of the board of trustees of Brownville, which, apparently, is a town in Kentucky. Also he had been grand sire of the sovereign grand lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, as well as a noted Kentucky judge.

If it had been a point of law, the senate would have followed him blindly. But, as the new Dealers contend, even six members of the senate were recently wrong on AAA, so you have to be careful these days. Objecting republican senators prevented the passage of the bill to form an independent personal opinion about how much business it would regulate.

TELEPHONE VOTING The doubters became even more dubious when they heard a cloakroom story about how the bill was voted out of the senate judiciary committee. At that particular committee meeting, only two or three senators were present.

The sires of the bill needed at least nine votes to take action, so they got on the telephone. They collected enough telephonic proxies to accumulate 12 favorable votes on a bill which may be the best ever written, but which would regulate "any person engaged in commerce."

Unquestionably, if this new modernization method prevails, congress need not assemble at all, but can vote by telephone. Unfortunately, it probably will not prevail. There are always people standing in the path of progress.

SEEDS You may have noticed that congress has made less progress toward discontinuing seed loans. That phase of farm relief started in the drouth of 1930. There is no drouth this year, but congress is currently providing $50,000,000 for seed loans anyway.

Agriculture Secretary Wallace is quietly against it. Also a lot of congressmen promised last year that they would never do it again. It does not fit in with the crop curtailment theory they are all promoting. However, this is a campaign year.

NOTES Smiles are generally outlawed in the supreme court, but a few have slipped in unnoticed. The justices were having a little time developing the argument of an attorney. They asked question after question, without understanding any more than they knew before, whereupon Just Justice McReynolds observed: "This case seems to be a secret."

Congressman Bierman, of Iowa, has gathered figures indicating that the taxpayers next year will have to pay more than $4,000,000,000 for the cost of past and future wars, which is more than was spent for the entire relief program this year.

Three press gallery observers went to eye and ear specialists after noting democratic laudations of Lincoln on the floor of the senate Wednesday.

President Roosevelt has privately told congressional callers that he personally asked several CCC boys from the city how they liked life in the country CCC camps and that they approved it enthusiastically. He promised that the spending curtailment program would not interfere with their enjoyment.

It cannot be true, but at least one person will testify that he saw John Raskob, the pursued object of Mr. Morgenthau's tax disaffections, coming out of the White House the other afternoon.

There was an advertisement the other day in a well-known daily paper published by negroes for negroes. This advertisement was about a fortune teller and extolled the ability of the woman in question to foretell the future, from palms, horoscopes, etc.

It gave a telephone number and said the clairvoyant would be glad to provide individual "readings," at a bargain price if the customer would telephone.

But the phone number given was wrong. It happens to be the number of a well-known firm of lawyers in Atlanta and, for a day or two, the firm in the law office have been kept busy informing anxious enquirers that they do not tell fortunes.

One or two of the hard-working secretaries, at that, were being tempted to don a gypsy costume and try reading the lines of the palm-reading hand.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Gunning

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 13.—This living human document may not amount to much if only because it is being composed in a slat-sided Tower of Babel on a portable German typewriter.

It is widely reported in Europe that the German factories which produce the typewriters also manufacture the machine guns, and there is a popular story of a stenographer who sat down to type some letters but hit the trigger instead of the space bar and blew her employer full of holes.

Two Japanese journalists sitting across the pine table from your correspondent at this writing, in danger of causing an international incident at this international demonstration of good will, is a mental hazard which tends to cramp a man's type. Up to this time, however, the German typewriter has not shelled anyone, so your correspondent is beginning to gain confidence. It may be only a simple typewriter, after all, or maybe it just isn't loaded.

The press room is a reminder of the one of the League of Nations at Geneva, for there are journalists here of many nations—including of course, the Scandinavians—and most of them are not sportswriters by trade but heavy duty thinkers and political reporters from the regular bureaus of the world press sent to Garmisch from Berlin and Paris to cover a series of events which contain possibilities as grim and warlike as the deliberations of any conference of diplomats for the purpose of limiting armaments or concluding treaties of peace.

Well, Here's It was a surprise, therefore, to find sitting down at the end of the pine table a few minutes ago Mr. Paul Gallico, a professional sportswriter from New York—an odd bird, indeed, among so many colleagues of more serious occupations, but stranger still because he is a sportswriter who often performs in the sport which he undertakes to cover.

Consistent with policy, Mr. Gallico recently took a course of instruction in an indoor school of ski jumping, and when he arrived in Garmisch he elected the highest Alp in the Alps as his subject for the stories he has dashed through the air with the greatest ease and landed in a river in the valley, and if there had been a present he undoubtedly would have established a new world record, for his hop was more like a parachute leap without the parachute than a ski run.

Mr. Gallico's daring jump has been the subject of much admiring comment by the hardy Norwegians from the Scandinavian countries who are experts in this sport, but our hero has been a correspondent since he did not mean to come down the mountain. In fact, Mr. Gallico fell off the Alp and is one of the few men who have done this and survived.

He was standing at the top terrified by the view when his ski slipped and he dashed away. His ski was equipped with brakes, and the American journalist, being unable to arrest his descent, spread his wings and took off into space.

Likened Like the humble South Bend, Ind., man who tapped a drunken passenger over the head with his control handle and knocked him to the ground, Mr. Gallico was now in a rather delicate situation.

The unfortunate motorman was a quiet citizen afraid of strife, who struck the bellicose stranger only in desperation, but now he was famous through South Bend, Ind., which contained many a guy, and all the tough guys in South Bend began to look him up and swing punches at him so that they could have the honor of knocking him down.

John L. Sullivan. Soon he was forced to leave town and change his name, and that may be Mr. Gallico's fate here, because all the hardy Norwegians are issuing challenges to him to jump off higher and steeper Alps.

Our hero, however, is standing on his own achievement and is calling to the New York department store in which he studied skiing on Mount Epsom, the indoor Alp, to demand his varsity letter.

The worst fear now is that the American coach will tap him on the shoulder and deliver the terrible news that he has made the team, all because he has jumped off an Alp.

The German typewriter is positively not a machine gun, after all, and a very ingenious mechanism, nevertheless, for, behold, it has just laid an egg.

First Telephone.

Elisha Gray filed a caveat in 1878 for an invention to transmit the human voice through a wire, a telegraphic circuit, etc. But he was two hours late for that same day Alexander Graham Bell had likewise filed an application for a patent on the telephone. And similar instruments had been developed independently at the same time by Thomas A. Edison and Emile Berliner.

The first telephone was then already 15 years old, for the word had been used by Philipp Reis, a German, in 1861, anticipating the invention of a voice transmitter!

Grant's Victory.

Brigadier General Hiram Ulysses U. S. Grant won his initial national fame in 1862, leading the successful assault on Fort Donelson, Tenn., one of the two fortresses controlling the second most vital Confederate artery. It was his first notable victory. Casualties after the four-day conflict: Confederates killed, 510, 2,152 wounded; Confederates, 200 killed and wounded 13, 829 prisoners.

Twice Hanged; Lives.

Will Purvis was hanged twice at Jackson, Miss., in 1894, and lived to tell the tale. Twice the trap was sprung, and twice Purvis plunged through with a noose around his neck, and twice he was not injured. Onlookers who were standing by to see him pay the penalty for murder would not let the sheriff strangle him up again, and the governor commuted his sentence. Five years later another man confessed the crime of which Purvis was convicted!

When You Destroy the Foundation, You Destroy the House That Rests on It

By ROBERT QUILEN.

Centuries have passed since Christians were fed to lions to make a Roman holiday, and martyrdom for the sake of conscience seems as remote from our times as the story of the Caesars.

Yet today more than one-third of all the earth's Christians live in countries whose governments are doing their utmost to stamp out the Christian religion.

Does that mean anything to you? If the Christian religion is destroyed, will your life be affected in any way?

The best way to find the answer is to consider what Christianity has done for our race and what it now means to our civilization.

It is true that the early church was ignorant, cruel and immoral, but it was characteristic of its times. The fault was not in the religion, but in men. No philosophy of spiritual idealism can transform heathen into highly civilized men in one generation.

It is also true that the church is now weakened and shamed by a sophisticated and agnostic element whose religion is mere form and ritual and pretense, and another element, sincere but ignorant, whose religion is a sensual superstition that delights in frenzy.

But the great middle class of sincere, sensible and upright Christians still sets the example and exerts the influence that have made our civilization what it is.

If you would measure the worth of Christianity, compare our civilization with the older ones that rejected it. A tree must be judged by its fruit.

The Christian religion taught the brotherhood of man, and out of that teaching came freedom, equality and justice.

It taught charity and compassion and made man his brother's keeper. It taught the rich to use their abundance to help the unfortunate.

Men without religion can be moral, unselfish and righteous; but while some men can, all experience has shown that most men won't.

If you have no interest in religion and no respect for it, and yet prefer our kind of civilization, the enemies of Christianity are your enemies.

For a civilization based on any religion cannot retain its character when the religion itself is discarded.

Hollywood Today

BY SHEILAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—Darryl F. Zanuck, more than any other producer in Hollywood, is responsible for bringing to the screen the broad canvases of ancient and modern historical drama. In continuation with this policy, Zanuck has acquired the screen rights to "The Last Slave," the novel by Dr. George S. King, for production this summer. The story concerns the picturesque and miserable life of the slave in Africa.

From the time Zanuck went in as vice president in charge of production of the recently organized Twentieth Century-Fox studio, he has been for which he is responsible include "A Message to Garcia," dealing with the Spanish-American War and starring Wallace Beery, John Boles and Barbara Stanwyck; "The Little Rebel," featuring Shirley Temple against a Civil War background; "Prisoner of Shark Island," directed by John Ford, with Warner Baxter, the severely malnourished Doctor Mudd, incarcerated in the prison island because of circumstantial evidence involving him in the assassination of President Lincoln; "Under Two Flags," a story of the Foreign Legion, with Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert and Victor McLaglen; "Zero in Forty," starring the French side of the World War, and starring Warner Baxter and Frederic March.

The chances are bright that Warner Baxter, who recently signed a seven-year contract with Twentieth Century, will play the lead in "The Last Slave," a story similar in period and locale to "The Prisoner of Shark Island." Nunnally Johnson, writer and supervisor of the last mentioned film, has been assigned to bring the slave picture to the screen as associate producer.

tant. It should please the eye as well as the palate. There is an aesthetic as well as a practical side to serving a meal.

Don't Wait for "Company."
"And don't save your artistry for company dinners. Your family will appreciate an appeal to their appetites in a new manner of serving an old favorite, or a bit of style in introducing a new dish."

"Of course, all the fancy garnishing in the world won't turn poorly cooked food into a good meal," Miss Chambers reminded. "But when you have prepared the roast or the steak or the meat loaf to the best of your ability, be enough of a showman to present it effectively."

And Miss Chambers can increase the housewife's cooking ability a great deal even the most optimistic could wish, as thousands of Atlanta women already have found out for themselves during the first three sessions of "Foods on Parade."

Art Like Magic.
Like magic, she can take an inexpensive and seldom used cut of meat and turn it into a delicious dish, tender, tasty and easily prepared.

And like magic, too, she can impart this kitchen technique to her audience in a thoroughly entertaining manner.

"Happy Endings," the final session of "Foods on Parade" this morning at the Georgia theater, will find Miss Chambers demonstrating the preparation of the following list of enticing dishes:

Penny-wise porterhouse.
Sunday night salad.
Apple strudel.
Majestic baked ham.
Chuck pot roast.
Pork steaks en casserole.
American style leg of lamb.
Lamb en brochette.
Ham and corn fritters.
Hot smoked tongue with spinach and rice.

Jellied meat loaf.
Chocolate mint layer cake.
Coffee Malobet.
Rhubarb bananas.
Southern rice cakes.
Chipped beef baskets.
Paradise pudding.
Deviled eggs in tomato aspic.
Presidential meat loaf.

Low-Cost Delicacies.
That list of intriguing dishes sounds like "happy endings" indeed for Atlanta's most popular cooking school. Each of the culinary creations is filled with the magic of an indescribably delicious dish at a very low cost.

Don't let this final opportunity escape you. Whether or not you regularly have attended the other sessions of "Foods on Parade" you will not want to miss a bit of the closing entertaining and informative session.

The final showing of spring and summer fashions will take place this morning also. The attractive models received a "big hand" yesterday morning as Mr. Bramble disclosed the long hours and untiring efforts they had expended to make the parade of fashions a pleasing and informative presentation.

They will be on hand again this morning to display additional creations for the coming season.

Mackey's many other prominent Atlanta firms have banded together to make "Foods on Parade" complete in every detail.

Important Contribution.
The Atlanta Gas Light Company, with its natural gas product and Roper ranges, is an important contributing factor to the success of the cooking demonstrations, as is the organization of Atlanta Ice Dealers, which features air-conditioned ice refrigerators for perfect and healthful refrigeration.

Foremost Dairies, Inc., distributing the famous Foremost milk through Piggly Wiggly stores in Atlanta, finds prominence in Miss Chambers' list of selected products. French brand coffee, also sold by Piggly Wiggly stores, is another featured product.

King Hardware Company joins Miss Chambers in favor of Wearer aluminum and Pyrex ware.

Howard's will advise housewives on "Foods on Parade" that table fare may be made more elaborate through savings on expert cleaning.

Furniture Displayed.
Duffee-Freeman Furniture Company, recently moved into their new Peachtree location, display efficient and pleasing furniture for the kitchen and other important rooms of the house.

Quality Service Stores features Libby's canned goods, favored by Miss Chambers as an adjunct to good cooking.

Chemm, the popular food-drink dealer, features Lane's Drug Store, finds a place in Miss Chambers' demonstrations because of its nutritious and energy-giving nature.

Beauty and style in cars is just as important as it is in clothes, says Beaudry's, one of Atlanta's leading Ford dealers. Atlanta women attending "Foods on Parade" are of the same opinion, it is reported.

Bames, Inc., brings beauty and style into the home with a complete line of radios and electrical players, the audience are finding.

Other Participants.
Others participating in the highly successful fashion show and cooking school are McCormick & Company, makers of Bee Brand extracts and spices; American Sugar Refining Company, makers of Domino sugar; the Atlanta Coca-Cola Bottling Company, Ballard & Ballard, manufacturers of Ballard's oven ready biscuits; Clorox Chemical Company; Durkee's Famous Foods, General Foods, Inc., makers of Baker's coconut; H. J. Heinz Company, manufacturers of Heinz assorted soups; John F. Jelke Company, makers of Good Luck margarine; the Kellogg Company, manufacturers of Kellogg's all-bran; K & C Gelatine Company.

Attendance Records.
With this wholehearted co-operation of Atlanta merchants, no wonder "Foods on Parade" is such a thorough success. And with the highly pleasing and informative parade of fine foods and fashions, it is no wonder that Atlanta women are setting an all-time attendance record for the cooking school.

This morning's final session of "Foods on Parade" promises to be a fitting climax for the four-day program of the unique presentation. You can't afford to miss this closing entertainment. Doors at the Georgia theater open at 8 o'clock this morning for "Foods on Parade" with the fashion show at 8:40 and the cooking classes from 9 to 10:45 o'clock.

AD CLUB TO BACK EXPANSION PLANS

Harrington Tells of Activities Proposed by Chamber of Commerce.

Expansion of Atlanta's business held the limelight of discussion at the Atlanta Advertising Club luncheon Wednesday, when W. Eugene Harrington, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, spoke. As a result the club pledged its full support to a definite program of business expansion.

Plans were outlined for a series of expansion activities to be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, with the co-operation of other civic and trade organizations. Mr. Harrington was the first of a series of speakers who will bring the various phases of Atlanta's business life before the Ad Club.

James W. Petty Jr., newly elected head of the Ad Club, presided at the luncheon meeting. Mr. Harrington spoke on business in general, bringing out its relations to government, legislation and public opinion.

'HOLDUP MAN' GIVEN VERDICT FOR 'MISTAKE'

Because a storekeeper thought he was a bandit and acted accordingly, Grady Patterson, negro, was awarded damages of $88 by a jury in Fulton superior court yesterday.

The negro sued Samuel Elkin, operator of a McDaniel street store, for $2,000, alleging Elkin threatened him with a butcher knife and kicked him out the door on December 7, 1934. Elkin explained he had been robbed three times and when he saw Patterson standing near a counter he thought another holdup attempt was in prospect.

The jury decided $88 would cover Elkin's embarrassment and pain and the award of the jury was made the order of the court by Judge Virlyn B. Moore.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tabs the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

HOUSE NEARS PASSAGE OF HUGE ARMY BILL

$400,000,000 Appropriation for Military Purposes Tentatively Approved.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Record peacetime army appropriations of nearly $400,000,000 for solely military purposes were tentatively approved by the house today after it rode down efforts to increase airplane purchases.

This brought the $543,000,000 War Department supply bill to the point of another major fight before tomorrow night's anticipated passage.

The next dispute is whether $100,000,000 for new rivers and harbors projects shall be earmarked for certain sections and whether $20,000,000 shall be restored for the Passaic aqueduct dam, Florida ship canal and other projects started with relief money.

Funds to increase the army's enlisted strength to not less than 174,000 by July 1, 1937, to grant $8,500,000 for defense of the west coast and in Hawaii and Panama, and other military outlays were passed over with comparatively little attention, although a midwestern farm bloc tried unsuccessfully to reduce funds for pay of the army.

The military affairs committee had voted not to try to increase to 800 the 265 new airplanes provided in the bill, but Representative Rogers, democrat, New York, proposed to raise the figure to 700 by boosting air corps funds from $59,397,714 to $72,397,714.

This amendment lost on a 26-63 standing vote.

The 595 planes—all but 50 for the regular army—was 50 more than called for in the budget, the increase having been effected by cutting in half the allowance for engines.

APPROPRIATIONS BODY STUDIES NEW GUN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Information on the development of a new field artillery gun that outshoots the famous French 15's of World War days today was in the hands of the house appropriations committee.

Major General W. H. Tschappat, chief of army ordnance, gave his data to the committee handling the huge peacetime appropriation for national defense.

The new gun, Tschappat disclosed, hits the bull's-eye at 15,000 yards, an increase of 1,500 yards over the French guns used by American artillery in the World War and since retained as standard artillery equipment.

Tschappat added, however, that the new guns cost approximately $5,000 more each than the old. For the present the army plans to concentrate on modernizing field guns now on hand although the new guns may be produced to meet any emergency or to replace guns now in commission when they become obsolete.

Congress has been asked for an appropriation of $632,000 to increase the speed, range and ability of guns to shift from target to target, at a cost of $11,300 per gun.

Modernization is accomplished, Tschappat explained, by retaining the gun and recuperator, and constructing new undercarriages to replace the wooden-wheeler, steel tired horse drawn carriage used in France.

SPRING SONG

Bermuda Beckons to Those Impatient for Spring

Air-conditioning, presented in the guise of man-made weather, is as advertised. We're extremely thankful for well-warmed winter quarters, comfortable enough under the conditions, but hardly comparable to the tropic sun. And science's contribution to summer comfort by means of artificial refrigeration is highly efficient. It eliminates no end of lost time discussing the humidity. But no one has reproduced Spring artificially, and so nature comes through with Bermuda. If time presses, you may, if you wish, secure a homeopathic dose of Spring by a long week-end cruise. Or you may enjoy a lengthier stay with the promise of a full measure of late Spring. Shown above, greeting the visitor in a grey flannel double-breasted suit that features a jacket with side vents, is a gentleman wearing a hound's tooth check Shetland jacket, light grey flannel trousers and white buckskin shoes.

Brown reverse calf, monk-front shoes will be correct, and a lightweight felt pork pie hat will be useful.

You'll find a need for the new, darker-toned, collar-attached shirt. The one we've shown has a wide spread collar and the tie is the fashionable, bold hound's tooth check silk.

The Bermudian spring days will offer a call for a sleeveless pullover, and a scarf to be worn ascot will be both comfortable and smart.

The camel's hair coat is indispensable not only for the boat ride coming and going, but for many of the spring evenings as well.

A bold plaid odd jacket and grey flannel slacks are currently fashionable for day wear in Bermuda.

IMPORTANT NOTE: In case you have any doubts about what to wear and when to wear it, we should be happy to send you a "CHART OR CORRECT DRESS—APPROVED BY ESQUIRE". Just send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ESQUIRE will answer all questions on men's fashions. Write MEN'S FASHION DEPARTMENT, THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

TRAGEDY RECALLED

Body of Young Victim of Florida Storm Found.

TAVERNIER, Fla., Feb. 13.—(AP)—A major tragedy of the Florida keys' catastrophic Labor Day hurricane was recalled today with the finding of the weather-beaten skeleton of 10-year-old Henrietta Russell, whose near kin all died in the storm.

Judge E. R. Lowe, peace justice of the keys section of Monroe county, headed searchers who came upon the girl's remains three miles east of Flamingo, between east and middle cape, Tuesday.

Identification was effected, Judge Lowe said, by dental work, by the fact that the child was underdeveloped of body while normal of head and by fragments of clothing still clinging to her body.

In the Labor Day storm, which took the lives of more than 400 persons, Henrietta's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Russell, and all of her nine brothers and sisters died. Of the 75 members of the Russell family in this area, only 12 survived the disaster.

The body was the thirty-seventh found in the last 34 days, though it has now been five months and more since the great blow took its destroying way across the low-lying keys. Rains early in January that washed away ashes left when authorities had the pestilence-threatened areas burned over led to the discovery of 20 or more of them.

ALLEGED DRUG THEFT HALTED BY DRUGGIST

Caught after a scuffle with the proprietor of a drug store from which they allegedly attempted to steal narcotics, G. C. Ormond, of 380 Washington street, and C. L. Smith, of 458 Cooper street, were arrested by DeKalb county police early yesterday afternoon on felony charges.

The attempted theft occurred in the store of Dr. W. H. Ivey, near the Emory University campus. According to police, Ormond complained of feeling ill, and Dr. Ivey showed the men to a rest room in the rear.

They then allegedly attempted to rifle a drug cabinet, and a brief scuffle followed, the proprietor holding the suspects until police arrived.

BUSINESS IS REPORTED AT NEARLY-FIVE-YEAR HIGH

Economic Condition Improved Despite Disturbing Factors, Sibley Says.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Harper Sibley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said today the economic condition of the nation, "despite the disturbing factors" of government, is at the highest level in the past five years.

"It is a pleasure," Sibley said, in addressing the Life Underwriters' Association of New York City, "to be able to point to some new high records in business."

"More" shoes were turned out than in any earlier year. More wool went into manufacture than in any other peacetime year. We can conclude that the 128,000,000 people now in the United States were better shod and better clothed than for many a year.

The steel industry, at the end of 1935, Sibley said, had returned to employment at predepression volume with wage rates "as high as were ever paid in peacetime."

"The energies which have been awakened," Sibley said, "practically assure us that we shall not in the spring and summer lose any of the progress we have made. We shall hold our own."

Business, he said, seeks the "complete return to a basis of economic activity that is self-sustaining, resting on firm ground, with the old prop no longer necessary. There are two very broad questions of public policy that seem to me to be of paramount importance in this quest."

"First, I should mention the need of sound fiscal policies. So long as we have public spending continue in excess of public revenues, we are exposed to a whole series of threats for the future."

"Second of these broader questions of public policy I should mention the need of government competition with private industry and government regulations of private industry."

ADULTS CAN LEARN, WPA LEADER SAYS

Results of Educational Program Explodes Theory, Director Declares.

The results achieved by the Works Progress Administration in the general educational program carried on throughout the country during the last two years has exploded the theory that adult illiterates are unable or unwilling to learn, according to Dr. L. R. Alderman, of Washington, director of WPA educational programs.

While in Atlanta yesterday with Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, and Dr. R. R. Paty, WPA educational director for Georgia, Dr. Alderman summarized results of the efforts of the administration in the field of education.

He pointed out that there are between eight and ten million illiterates in the United States. Since the education program was started approximately 300,000 illiterates have been taught to read and write, he said.

"All over the country these people seem to welcome the opportunity to get the fundamentals of an education; to work their way out of their present condition. We are getting many requests for teachers for these classes. The enthusiasm that accompanies the program takes you off your feet."

The work among adults is developing greater interest in education among children of school age, Dr. Alderman said.

FRENCH HEADS ORDER ROYALISTS DISSOLVED

Attack on Blum, Socialist Leader, Brings Decree of Cabinet.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The French cabinet, yielding to strong demands from royalists whose leader was beaten in a street fight, ordered tonight the dissolution of all militant royalist organizations in France.

The decree, royalist leaders countered, "means nothing."

Publication of the order followed an emergency session of Premier Albert Sarraut's cabinet after stormy parades in the streets in which the center joined the royalists in heaping blame on the royalists for the attack on Leon Blum, socialist party leader.

Blum was pounced upon by members of the "king's henchmen," a younger group of the Action Francaise League, as the deputy was awaiting the funeral procession of Jacques Bainville, historian and founder of the league, to pass.

The young royalists, the socialists charged, dragged the deputy from his automobile, beat him over the head with canes and rolled him in the street. Several bricklayers working near by hastened to Blum's rescue.

Following the dissolution order, police visited the Action Francaise headquarters, seized documents and demanded a list of the organization's members.

Their request was denied by Leon Daudet and Charles Maurras, Action leaders, who were busy preparing tomorrow's edition of the league's newspaper, L'Action Francaise.

Blum was hurried to a hospital where he was treated for his injuries, which included a severe scalp wound. Doctors said a vein in his temple had been opened, causing heavy loss of blood. They forecast possible complications.

The cabinet's order was specifically directed against three militant royalist organizations—the Action Francaise League, the Camelots du Roi (king's henchmen) with headquarters in the league offices, and the National Federation of Students of the Action Francaise.

President Albert Lebrun signed the order, which the cabinet decreed was in accordance with the law of January 10, 1933, providing for the suppression of political rioting.

DEFENSE TO REST IN LIGGETT CASE

Cann's Lawyer Completes Testimony; State To Rebuttal Today.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Defense testimony in the trial of Isadore (Kid Cann) Blumenfeld, charged with first degree murder in the slaying of Walter Liggett, newspaper publisher, was completed in Judge Arthur Selover's district court today.

Thomas McMeekin, counsel for "The Kid," said the defense would rest immediately upon convening of court tomorrow. The remainder of the day is expected to be devoted to rebuttal by the state, with indications the case would go to the jury Monday.

Witnesses for the defense endeavored to substantiate his alleged alibi he was in a downtown barbershop at 5:41 p. m., December 9, when a leering machine gunner killed the publisher as he prepared to leave his car to enter his apartment.

McMeekin, in questioning his last two witnesses, pointed out that both made voluntary statements to authorities and that neither was called by the state to testify.

Anne Janssen, theater manager, and W. J. Mayen, theater supervisor, both told they saw "Cann" in the barbershop not more than five minutes after Liggett was killed a mile and a half away.

Mayen said he set his watch by an electric clock before leaving his office for the barbershop and knew he was correct in fixing the time when he saw the Kid at 5:45 p. m.

INTENSITY INCREASED IN JAP-MONGOL CLASH

to compel us to change this attitude, we must do what we can to cope with the situation.

"The Russians are building strong frontier positions and otherwise forward military preparations," he continued. "On the Manchoukuo side of the border, the Japanese army is doing very little in the way of reinforcement of garrisons or building of military works. Our forces in Manchuria are relatively small, compared to the Soviet far eastern army."

The war minister said in view of the situation in Manchoukuo and North China "some reinforcement of Japanese forces seems necessary" in areas where there is international tension.

He said the Soviet had concentrated in eastern Siberia a force equal to the entire Japanese army on a peace-time basis.

REDS CHARGE JAPS INVADED MONGOLIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 13.—(Friday)—(AP)—Soviet dispatches from Ulan Bator (Urga), Outer Mongolia, said today that 10 Japanese-Manchoukuo troops were killed in Wednesday's border clash with outer Mongolian forces.

The Japanese and Manchoukuo troops, the reports said, invaded outer Mongolian territory but were ejected after two fights near the Mongolian post of Bulun Dersu, the scene of several recent skirmishes.

The Mongolians admitted it was stated that one of their soldiers was killed and seven were wounded. They said 20 Japanese-Manchoukuo troops were wounded.

The invaders, the Ulan Bator dispatches reported, numbered over 500 and were accompanied by one airplane, several tanks and six army trucks.

Follows Red Charges.

The news came on the heels of repeated charges in the Soviet press that the Japanese were planning to occupy Outer Mongolia and were preparing for war with the Soviet union.

The Soviet account stated that the Mongolian frontier troops, outnumbered five to one, were defeated in the first clash about four and a half miles inside Mongolian territory and were obliged to retreat.

Reinforcements were rushed to their aid, however, the dispatches said, and the Japanese-Manchoukuos were turned back in a second engagement about seven and a half miles from the border.

The Mongolian government was said to have wired a demand to Manchoukuo to put an immediate stop to the alleged incursions on Mongolian territory and to punish those responsible for the latest invasion.

The situation on the Mongolian-Manchoukuo border, tense for several months, reached an acute stage recently following the reported concentration of Japanese troops opposite the Mongolians' key frontier posts.

Play Up Reports.

Reports that the Japanese were sending troops into Upper Mongolia have been played up in Moscow in an effort to prove that the Japanese were preparing to invade Outer Mongolia from the south as well as from the east.

Outer Mongolia has close ties with the Soviet union. Occupation by Japan would put the Japanese in a position to strike at the all-important Trans-Siberian railway, which connects the Soviet far-eastern army with Moscow and runs within 100 miles of the Soviet-Mongolian border.

The Russians themselves have had several clashes lately with Japanese-Manchoukuo troops west of Vladivostok, in far eastern Siberia.

MEADOR, ANNE GOULD ARE DIVORCED IN TEXAS

Young Investment Clerk Is Granted Decree on Deser- tion Charge.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Frank Spencer Meador, young investment clerk, was granted a divorce here today from Anne Gould Meador, of New York, railroad belle.

Meador appeared briefly before District Judge Harry L. Howard and was granted the decree in chambers. The decree set out Mrs. Meador signed a waiver to the petition at an undesignated place on January 17.

Meador's petition alleged desertion and harsh and cruel treatment. It set out the heiress left in January 30, 1935, and had failed to keep him informed of her whereabouts or condition.

The couple married in Harrison, N. J., December 26, 1934.

The divorce action was filed here on January 13, 1936. Costs of the suit were to be paid by Meador. The petition set out no children or property rights were involved.

ANNE GREAT-GRANDDAUGHTER OF THE LATE JAY GOULD

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Anne Gould Meador, whose husband, Frank Spencer Meador, was granted a divorce today in San Antonio, Texas, is a great-granddaughter of the late Jay Gould, railroad builder.

Her marriage to Meador in 1934 was an elopement. The two later received her family's blessing.

Meador formerly operated the telephone switchboard at the Crocker Club, a society bridge organization. He is a grandson of J. B. Estep, a banker, of Fort Worth, Texas.

EUROPEAN WEATHER CLAIMS HEAVY TOLL

Death List From Blizzards, Gales Expected To Ex- ceed 200.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Deaths from blizzards, gales and cold may exceed 200 in Europe and the near east, it was feared tonight, after milder conditions enabled a partial restoration of transportation and communication systems.

The Balkans were hard hit. Reports to the Bulgarian ministry of the interior said at least 68 persons lost their lives in a bitter blizzard, many of them travelers caught between villages.

In Hungary, temperatures were below zero, adding to the suffering. A government committee is investigating reports of near famine in many provinces. Many districts of southern Yugoslavia were without communication.

Scores of fishing boats were recovered from the shores of the Adriatic, Ionian, Black and Tyrrhenian seas as the storms abated somewhat.

Italian authorities were checking up on a loss of life which they anticipated might reach 40. The fishing boat Oghetta was found adrift by a tugboat with five bodies aboard.

A patchy fog, followed by cold, in the British Isles resulted in groundings and collisions of small vessels. One man died of the cold.

Many persons were missing in Thrace, where snowdrifts were reported as being five feet deep in some places.

In Norway elk were driven by hunger to the settlements. Heavy snows in the woods prevented them from getting food. Three of them were run down by trains near Oslo.

WINTRY ELEMENTS, DUST
FLOODS, HARRY NATION

High winds, cold, snow, sleet, rain, fog, dust storms, floods and fires spread death and damage through the northern hemisphere yesterday.

Official death tolls in the blizzards, gales and rigidity that beset Europe and the near east may exceed 200. America counted 33 dead. Twenty-eight perished in fires in Lakewood, N. J., Jackson, Minn., New York, Montreal, Charleston, Ill., and Crestview Lodge, Cal.

Treacherous highways cost two lives in Indiana. Illinois and South Dakota recorded one exposure death each. A landslide killed a workman on Mt. Lowe, Cal.

Snow and rain fell over 80 per cent of the United States. Snow piled toward a near record depth in Montana. Transportation was threatened any by the heavy fall in many parts of the midwest.

Some counties were isolated again in Wisconsin. Eleven towns were still cut off in South Dakota. Red Cross aid was requested. Scores of Michigan communities were in danger of being snowbound once more as tracks and roads drifted shut.

More snow and cold was the forecast for the midcontinent as reading of —50 was recorded at Chester, Minn. Official minimums of —35 at Shelby, Mont.; —21 at Moscow, Idaho, and —3 at Spokane, Wash., were recorded.

Heavy stock losses were anticipated. A dust storm darkened the Texas panhandle. Flying was crippled in the middle west. A few rail lines and many roads were clogged. Floods cut off the highway leading to the Malibu Beach colony in California.

The United Mine Workers authorized members to work an extra day this week to ease a coal shortage. Des Moines and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, set up coal administrations to ration fuel.

The New York coast guard lent continuous aid to craft crippled by the storm. Ten men, marooned in a government boat near Hurricane island in the Ohio river, were rescued by ice floes as big as houses. A mass of churning ice beleaguered two families on Rondeau's island in the same river.

The Bulgarian ministry estimated at least 68 persons died in a blizzard. A Hungarian government committee investigated reports of incipient famine in many provinces in sub-zero temperatures.

Italian authorities anticipated a maximum death list of 40. Many persons were missing among nine-foot snow drifts in Thrace. Abatement of the storm found scores of fishing boats strewn along the shores of the Adriatic, Ionian, Black and Tyrrhenian seas.

SOUTHEAST REPORTS SOME MINOR DAMAGE

Blustery squalls whipping inland from the Gulf of Mexico swept over Florida, South Carolina and Georgia last night, causing some minor damage.

The Weather Bureau in Jacksonville last night ordered a shift in storm warning which had flown completely around Florida's coast line. The danger signals were ordered down south of Savannah, Ga., with southwest warnings going up between Wilmington, N. C., and Savannah and southeast warnings north of Wilmington to New Bern.

Shipping was warned of winds of gale force off the coast.

Trees were uprooted, signs blown down and houses damaged in several sections by the warm, heavy wind. All of north Florida felt gusts which registered as much as 40 miles an hour velocity. A tree fell across a house in Madison, Fla., and several homes were damaged in Port St. Joe, Florida.

Transport planes were grounded north of Miami yesterday because of the wind and the yacht Caroline, taking part in the Miami-Nassau race, was missing. Little fear was felt for her safety.

DUST STORMS SWEEP TEXAS PANHANDLE

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Dust storms such as devastated great areas in the southwest and middle west in 1935 rolled again today in the Texas panhandle.

Blistering winds carrying soil scooped up from bare fields blotted out the sun. It was the most severe "black blizzard" in some places.

Grain fields lacking sufficient vegetative covering furnished ammunition for the 45-mile southwest wind that swept toward a low-pressure area in the northeastern panhandle.

Visibility at one time was reduced to one-fifth of a mile. Downtown Amarillo was under a haze of dirt.

MANY ARE INJURED BY CUBAN TORNADO

HAVANA, Feb. 13.—(AP)—At least a dozen persons were injured, some seriously, when a tornado swept through the village of Alquizar, Havana province, today.

The storm which Dr. Carlos Millas, director of the national observatory, said was a "freak"—caused heavy damage to the sugar cane crop in the Alquizar section, snapped off palm trees, uprooted others and wrecked a number of small residences.

Fear was expressed here that many persons had been injured in the isolated area around Alquizar. The wind velocity in the city of Havana reached a maximum of 40 miles an hour.

LEIBOWITZ CRACKS HAUPTMANN'S CALM

jury was out at Flemington and Hauptmann was sitting in cell wondering whether the verdict would be guilty or innocent.

Fateful Number 13.

Fate decided that this important interview with Leibowitz should occur on the 13th day of the month, carrying forward the coincidence that most important things that happen to Hauptmann are associated in some way with the numeral 13.

He was convicted on February 13, 1935; his attorney, Edward J. Kelley, had 13 letters in his name and so did the prosecutor, David T. Wilentz; Hauptmann was sentenced to die in the week of January 13, and at the trial he sat in front of press seat No. 13.

Leibowitz said he would not return to New York immediately. He got into an automobile but just before the motor started, he leaned out and said: "I have this further to say: The alleged statement that Hauptmann told me to go 'plumb to hell' has been denied by Hauptmann and several guards who overheard the alleged conversation."

Then the car started. Mrs. Hauptmann took a taxi cab.

Tonight Leibowitz' status in the case was doubtful. To get into the prison he had to become a member of the legal staff, but he had reserved the right to withdraw if Hauptmann refused to give him information on which he could petition Justice Thomas W. Trenchard for a new trial.

A new trial is almost Hauptmann's last chance. His case has been up to the United States supreme court twice and he has lost in every other appellate court into which his lawyers have gone. The only victory he has won has been one gained by executive decree—the 30-day reprieve granted by Governor Hoffman.

It was to get information on which to petition for a new trial that Leibowitz went through the barred door, down a long corridor and into the death house where a pale man in blue-gray trousers, white shirt and house slippers waited for him. Although Leibowitz refused to tell about their conversation, the lawyer indicated yesterday he was prepared to give the prisoner a dressing down.

His strategy must have worked, because Hauptmann is not the kind of man who breaks down and "cries like a child" over nothing. Leibowitz contends no lawyer can save Hauptmann unless he is willing to co-operate and tell all he knows about the Lindbergh crime. He left that thought with the prisoner, who didn't need to be told that his 30-day reprieve expires Saturday. When Leibowitz goes back into the death house, Hauptmann again will be close to the electric chair.

Payment of Fee.

Another question that Leibowitz left unanswered is who is paying his fee. Mrs. Hauptmann contends the defense fund is depleted. Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, of Washington, denied she financed the defense, but before he left New York for Trenton today, Leibowitz said:

"Mrs. McLean sent for me and I was with her Sunday at her estate, Friendship Heights, with Robert Hicks, Baltimore investigator, who brought the message to my New York office. It is Mrs. McLean alone who has interested me in this case.

Leibowitz, Mrs. Hauptmann and Hicks conferred tonight in a hotel room. On the way from the prison to the hotel, the cab in which Mrs. Hauptmann was riding skidded on the icy streets.

"There are times," Mrs. Hauptmann said, "when I wish the automobile I'm riding in would turn over."

Northwest Keeps Landmark.

The first courthouse in the Pacific Northwest and the second oldest building in Washington is being rebuilt. It is the old Jackson Prairie courthouse, located 12 miles south of Chehalis, Wash. The log building was constructed in 1947 by John R. Jackson, one of the first settlers in the region.

Twentieth Century-Fox is releasing "It Had to Happen." It co-stars George Raft and Rosalind Russell, a new screen team. "It Had to Happen" is as entertaining as its title is intriguing and is reported to be the best picture Raft ever worked in. Raft, as an Italian emigrant and ditch digger, is spurred to political heights by a beautiful society woman who would not look at him a second time—she thought. The Constitution is now offering his newest pose, size 8x10 inches, linen-like finish. You may have this photo of George Raft and pictures of seven other stars offered by The Constitution for the month of February. Also next Sunday, February 16, is offered the photo of Thelma Todd.

NEGRO THIEF LOOTS 3 FILLING STATIONS

Dry Cleaning Plant Also In- vaded in Swift Burglary Series.

Three Piedmont avenue filling stations and a dry cleaning plant on the same street suffered early this morning from the attacks of a marauder, believed by police to be a negro, who in each case ripped a pay station telephone from the wall and broke open the money box.

Radio police cruising in the neighborhood began discovering the looted places shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning and in quick succession found that the systematic burglaries had been committed at filling stations at 1539, 1546 and 1551 Piedmont avenue, and at a dry cleaning plant at 1551 Piedmont avenue.

The last discovery was made at the filling station at 1551 Piedmont avenue, where the police saw a negro fleeing from the place with a pay phone and a suit of clothes under his arm. He dropped both in jumping a fence behind the filling station. The officers shot at the negro but failed to hit him, they said.

DECATUR NOTES TODAY ON $80,000 BOND ISSUE

Ratification Will Bring $141,000 in Federal Funds for Improvements.

Decatur today will go to the polls to vote on an $80,000 bond issue. Balloting will begin at 6 o'clock this morning and all voters have been urged to cast their votes before 10:30 o'clock this morning, although the poll will remain open until 6 o'clock tonight.

Polling places will be maintained at the following locations: City hall, 708 East Lake drive, in the Poplar Springs district, and at 1044 West College avenue in the Oakhurst section.

Passage of the $80,000 bond issue will assure Decatur of a federal grant of $141,000 to be used for civic improvements in the schools, waterworks and sewer systems.

Claude Blount, chairman of the bond campaign committee, said the bond issue will not be ratified, and said if for any reason the federal gift is not forthcoming. However, all officials were confident no hitch will develop to mar the improvement program, which will benefit residents of Decatur for many years to come.

Two thirds of registered voters must cast ballots today and the majority of these must favor the bond issue to insure its passage, Blount announced. It was announced that 2,886 had qualified to vote in the election.

Three hundred members of the bond campaign committee point out to the registered voters of Decatur the necessity for them to cast ballots in order that the required number of votes will be cast.

STURDIVANT, POOLE SUSPENDED BY BOARD

John Neal Ellis and Lieutenants E. W. Glen, O. R. Jones and R. P. McLean, named by Lieutenant R. P. Burnett as being participants in an alleged poker game at the police station during the Roosevelt celebration. Other committee members declined to do anything about that they branded "as one of the lesser complaints about the police department."

Possibility that other suspensions may be ordered at another hearing, probably tonight, as a result of a probe into the release of more than a dozen other impounded liquor cars was seen as the committee moved for speedy clean-up of what they termed "the car release racket."

Pool Under Fire. The committee also will direct a double-barreled attack on Poole. In addition to haling him for trial, an ordinance to abolish the post of first assistant chief of police in charge of detectives will go to city council for action Monday.

Richardson asserted he had been assured of unexpected support for the move, and although there was some doubt among members that it would be successful, the committee decided to attempt it.

"I think we should take the same action against Poole that we took against Sturdivant," said G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the committee, said when Poole's name was considered.

"It's the only way to get factionalism out of the department. We've got to clean house, and I'm ready to do it."

Chief Poole was acting chief of police while Chief Sturdivant was out of town, and he did nothing to clean up the town," Couch added. "This department has never started at the top in the liquor, bug and other rackets. All they are getting is small fry."

Department Convicted Itself. The police department has convicted itself of incompetency for the past several years in the successful drive it has made in the past two weeks in my opinion," Alderman William H. Joyce replied.

A move to suspend Holcomb failed, and he was ordered for a reprimand only.

Patrolman Frank Bell was discharged following conviction of charges of being drunk in public while in uniform. His dismissal was accompanied by a stern warning that all others offending in the same manner may expect the same treatment.

Records Studied. As councilman G. Dan Bridges announced: "We are going to the bottom of this car business as far as we can go," records were studied involving the release of 13 impounded automobiles.

Among these was a car released July 28, 1935, to M. S. Harof. Although the impoundment card contained the word "whisky," it was not determined who released the car.

The initials "G. G. C." said to be those of George G. Caldwell, were noted on the card releasing a car on October 1, 1935, to Adair LeVert.

The signatures "Mangum and Johnson," patrolmen, were on this card also.

On August 15, 1935, a car was released to Mrs. Annie E. Hilton, the card being signed by Virgil H. Whittier, allegedly on orders of Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant.

It was brought out that Mrs. Hilton's car was stolen by a negro cook, who is now serving a chain gang sentence.

The records disclosed also that a car was released on July 17, 1935, to Eugene Dickey, Atlanta attorney. The card contained the notation, "Do not let this car out even if released. They want it."

This was interpreted by the committee as meaning "we want it," the "we" being Fulton county officers.

A card signed by Whittier also released the car of Miss Tanner Smith on October 17, 1935, with no explanation.

Named as Acting Chief

Lieutenant M. A. Hornsby, who early today was named acting chief of police, pending the trial of Chief T. O. Sturdivant, suspended.

Hughes Roberts," and signed by Patrolman Claude Carroll, a car was released October 18, 1935, to S. H. Rice, according to the records.

Roberts is a Fulton county officer in charge of impounded liquor cars, it was pointed out.

Other records under scrutiny were those disclosing releases of cars as follows: June 28, 1935, to John Eider, by L. L. Stone; March 29, 1935, to Scott Hill, by Lieutenant L. J. Carroll; April 16, 1935, to Henry Wilson, by L. C. Jones, and August 18, 1934, to George Finch, with the notation, "Attorney for owner," and with no notation of who ordered the release.

Investigation of the impounded cars records was interrupted by Chief of Police Sturdivant when he said, "That card's been tampered with" as the committee noted release of a car September 1934, to W. R. Hall, of Tyron, Ga.

"Yes, and all the cards involving Chief Sturdivant have been tampered with," said Sam Hewlett, his attorney.

No Release Notifications. Records also showed cars were released October 31, 1935, to Leslie Boyd, and July 8, 1935, to R. M. St. John. There were no notations as to who ordered their release.

Examination for men applying for places in the police department will be held next week, the committee decided.

There are more than 150 applications and these men will be given examinations in the city hall, at the rate of 15 to 20 daily, beginning Monday.

Patrolman S. L. Gurley was dropped from the force by the committee, due to the fact that he took a 30-day leave of absence and has not yet reported, although letters were written him and 120 days have elapsed.

The committee suspended Patrolman J. S. Melton, and he will appear before the next meeting on charges in connection with the finding of an allegedly stolen car in his possession.

Melton said the car was given him as security for a $200 loan by Will Cox, of a Piedmont avenue address, who is now in Florida.

ROOSEVELT APPROVES NEW HOUSING PLANS

Administration's authority to insure modernization and repair loans up to 20 per cent of the total loans made by a bank, Wagner said, was part of the general plan to stimulate private construction. Under present law, such authority would expire April 1.

The third phase of the program, to raise from 80 to 90 per cent the housing administration's insurance of mortgage loans by banks, is calculated to induce banks to lend more money to those in low-income groups who want to build homes costing $5,000 and under.

When told of the program, Secretary Ickes, who has been directing the present slum clearance program under the Public Works Administration, said he approved of it in "principle." He has repeatedly said some government aid must be given because private capital could not or would not supply it.

In this he became involved in controversy with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States which has called for an end of government building.

In a report to congress Stewart McDonald, housing administrator, reported that some mortgage money now is generally available "on the most attractive terms in the history of the country."

Through December, his report said, the FEHA had insured modernization and repair notes aggregating $254,070,720, had accepted $170,594,864 of home mortgages for insurance and had agreed to insure large-scale housing projects in the amount of $27,030,234.

At present, the report added, the home financing system is in sound condition with both home buyers and lenders "adequately protected against the possibility of a disastrous mortgage collapse."

Slick Bad-Check Passer Defies Police Efforts

A bad-check artist, operating in Atlanta for the past several weeks with a smoothness which has defied capture, is being sought by police.

Detective Hugh Brown, in charge of bad checks, asks the aid of Atlantans in locating the swindler.

The offender is using a rubber stamp bearing the name of the Rogers Hardware Store, 222 Decatur street. The stamp is said to have been stolen from the company. The checks, ranging from $5 to $20, are made payable to a variety of fictitious names. Coal dealers and grocers have been the principal victims of the bogus check passer, Detective Brown said.

Descriptions supplied by several victims show the man to be about 30 years old, short and stocky build, weighing about 215 pounds, fair complexion, blue eyes and sandy hair.

Anyone having a check presented to him by a person of this description is asked to notify police immediately and to hold the man if possible.

TALMADGE'S PLAYED BY AUGUSTA ATTORNEY

guarded by the insertion of the following language:

"And no person or collection of persons, being one of these departments, shall exercise any power properly attached to either of the above, except in the instances herein expressly permitted."

The precise words were retained in the constitution of 1861, 1865, 1868 and similar words in the constitution of 1877.

That notable constitution of 1798 further provided: "All bills for raising revenue or appropriating money shall originate in the house, etc." . . . thus making the levying of taxes and the spending of its money of the same rank and derivable from the same source.

These quoted words were retained in the constitution of 1861, 1865, 1868 and 1877.

Those provisions in our fundamental law are based on the universally accepted principle of free government that the power of taxation belongs exclusively to the legislative department.

By way of guarding against unforeseen contingencies, the constitution of 1877 under which we are now living goes further, and expressly provides as follows:

"The (governor) shall have power to convene the general assembly on extraordinary occasions, on law shall be enacted at called sessions of the general assembly, except such as shall relate to the object stated in his proclamation convening them."

That constitution also provides: "No money shall be drawn from the treasury except by appropriation made by law."

Applying Principles to Facts. Let us now apply these principles to the unfortunate political situation in Georgia that now causes much concern to thoughtful citizens, concern not only for the wrong done in the present, but for the precedent it may set for greater wrongs in the future if the populace should be misled by the heated passions of one-man power for speedy action.

At the July 1934 session the two houses of our general assembly had failed to agree on the general appropriation bill when the constitution limit of 60 days put an end to the session.

It is not the purpose of this writer to engage in any controversy as to who was responsible for that unfortunate deadlock. Some of the gentlemen immediately concerned say that the Governor's political enemies were trying to entrap him. Others insist that the Governor and his friends purposely maneuvered the clock to give order to him.

Regardless of these charges and counter-charges, the burning question remains, "What was the duty of the Governor in that emergency?"

Duty of the Governor. It was clearly in his power to continue the administration of the government by calling the general assembly into special session, and to limit it to the enactment of an appropriation bill.

The state was certainly faced with an "extraordinary" situation and the power to avoid disruption of the state's finances was specifically given to the governor by the constitution. He not only had the power, but he was under obligation to meet the emergency in the manner provided by the constitution instead of seeking some undisclosed dictatorial method of his own.

It is no answer to that charge to say that the constitution nowhere expressly requires the governor to call an extraordinary session. The duty to do so when such an emergency arises cannot be renounced or evaded. Our supreme court has ruled that the power to prohibit legislation may be derived from the constitution by implication as well as by express provision. The converse is also true that power to the legislature or the governor to act may be established by implication as well as by express provision.

In other words, implication may empower as well as prohibit, and may impose a duty in either case.

Huey-siana and Tal-madga. From all indications gathered from statements in the press, our Governor intends to combine in himself executive and legislative functions, and shut his eyes to what the judiciary may have to say after the coup has been executed.

Even Huey Long, the most daring of American dictators, had respect enough for law and public opinion to entrench himself in power by dominating the legislature. Yet our Governor apparently desires no intermediary, or cooperator, but considers that he is all sufficient of himself.

The wisest have made sport of the old Pelican state of Louisiana by nicknaming it "Huey-siana." Shall we give them cause to make sport of our Empire State of Georgia by calling it "Tal-madga"?

Such disrespect for the law as shown by our chief executive deserves condemnation and may well excite any citizen for giving public expression to his adverse views—as the writer of this article is now doing. The higher the station of the offender, the worse his example.

Perhaps our governor may yet seek the aid of the present legislature instead of taking chances on the political complexion of the next one.

Under Which Flag, State or Federal? Another incongruity in our present political quagmire is that though our Governor tramples on the constitution of his own state, he is stirred with veneration for devotion to the constitution of the United States, while at the same time he is loyal to "state rights" and personal liberty.

Still another incongruity that confronts us is that our Governor censures our senators and representatives for taking an active interest in Georgia politics as they affect the coming presidential campaign. He says they are paid to legislate, and should leave politics to the people. Is he not paid to execute the laws of Georgia? And is he not the most active politician in the state? Why does he not take his own advice and leave politics to the people?

The Bankhead Law Too Mild. Still another incongruity that confronts us is that our Governor

Ordered Reprimanded

Assistant Chief of Police A. J. Holcomb, who early this morning was ordered reprimanded by the police committee for failure to investigate properly gaming at the city jail.

plifies the situation is that our Governor denounces the President as a traitor to the federal constitution for trying to raise the price of agricultural products by limiting production, yet he solemnly announces his adherence to the ancient Levitical rule of suspending all agricultural production every seventh year for the benefit of the poor.

Again, he opposes government relief for the needy—says it is charity, and therefore within the religious obligation of the churches. But right there comes the query: Why should the ungodly be exempted from taxation to meet the necessities of the poor?

We are discouraged by still another one of those incongruities for he has not more than once made public statement in his belief that the en-enights of the public buildings in Washington should be pulled down? Yet he failed to state what wages he would pay the laborers engaged in the race for president. N. H. Howell will be held.

The statement of Governor Talmadge followed closely on the heels of a statement by the Talmadge chairman and his accused brother in which they blamed Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins for the indictment. In Washington yesterday, Hopkins said he had no comment to make, asserting that the entire matter is in the hands of District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, of Atlanta.

cussion, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrator of the WPA and the FEHA, said last night:

"As administrator of the WPA and FEHA, I can definitely say that no funds and no labor were used for such purposes and no relief workers were brought to Atlanta from Savannah."

Talmadge Attack. The Governor released his attack when newspapermen asked him if he had any comment to make on the indictment. He made this reply:

"Assuming that the charges against Mr. Howell are true, aren't the parties equally as guilty who spent relief funds to decorate Tych Flats and buy nine miles of rope and brought relief workers from Savannah to Atlanta at the expense of the taxpayers and having them cash their relief checks at Rose Garden, near Atlanta, to swell the crowd at a political meeting of President Roosevelt?"

"Aren't they equally as guilty by sending Tom Heflin to visit Methodist conferences and make political speeches at the expense of the taxpayers, saying nothing about having tan-dance entertainment at the expense of the taxpayers?"

"It all depends on whose ox is gored."

The Governor did not explain his reference to "tan-dance" entertainment. In fact he insisted that what is quoted is all he had to say.

demonstrate its championship qualities in the match.

"We Shall Do Our Best." Secretary Phillips, of the Atlanta Club, yesterday, however, was more constrained in his comments. He said, simply:

"We shall do our best."

As soon as the shooting is over in Atlanta Sunday the results will be wired to Moscow and, when the Moscow team shoots Tuesday, it will have a definite mark to accomplish.

Someone in Moscow will have to do some fancy shooting to overcome the mark that Atlanta team expects to be recorded on the targets of Charles G. Hamby, an Atlanta photographer, who has an international reputation with the rifle.

Hamby, everyone concedes, is one of the best shots in the world, and his teammates believe that he may prove to Moscow Sunday that he is the best in the world.

Something to Shoot At. Here's another trick of his done at Camp Perry, Ohio, that started the nation talking just a bit ago:

He fired the smallest 10-shot group, iron sights, which means no telescopic sights, ever recorded in this country. To the uninitiated, that means that he fired 10 shots, one after another, and each bullet sped through the hole cut by the first bullet.

Here's another Hamby trick: He let them put up a 100-yard target 200 yards away and put up shots inside the two-inch bull's eye, iron sights.

Hamby has dozens of these tricks to his record book and as long as he puts his shots through the center of the bull's eye, no one in Moscow can do better.

Rufus Godwin, Hal L. Drake Sr., J. D. Phillips and all the other members of the Atlanta team have great records behind them and they hope to live up to them Sunday.

Youngest member of the Atlanta team is Bobby Childs Jr., a Georgia Tech student, who is said to be an excellent shot in all four positions, sitting, standing, kneeling and prone.

On top of that, all the Atlanta Rifle Club teams have made excellent showings in national matches.

So, Commander Bur-n may find some eye-openers in Atlanta Sunday when he gets the information to wire to the boys back home.

Whatever the result, it will be a novel stunt in sportsmanship and even though the rifles are of .22-caliber the outlook is that the shots will be heard around the world.

Cocke, head of the Atlanta Reconstruction Corporation office and Georgia national emergency council director, is here on RFP matters.

A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, chairman of the Georgia Roosevelt advisory committee, discussed the Georgia situation briefly with the President today.

"We are waiting on the chairman of the state democratic committee, Hugh Howell, to advise us when he will call the county together to consider a presidential primary," Lovett said.

"The custom of the party has been to have a presidential primary. We certainly want a primary."

FARM PLAN PASSAGE FORECAST BY TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Senate administration forces developed strategy today designed to turn back virtually all amendments offered to the soil conservation-subsidy bill.

It was learned a general understanding had been reached among democrats to stick by the agriculture committee without substantial modifications.

With more than a dozen substitutes and amendments awaiting decision—nearly all controversial—an agreement thereby restricting debate will go into effect tomorrow in a drive which democratic chiefs hope will lead to a final vote by night-fall.

ENGINEER IS BLAMED IN DEARING ACCIDENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—A head-on collision between two passenger trains on the Georgia railroad at Dearing, Ga., December 12 was attributed by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to failure of an engineer to obey orders.

Three employees were killed and 11 other persons injured in the accident. A report by the I. C. C. Safety Bureau said one of the trains was at a standstill on a main track and that in some way the engineer of the other "became confused as to his orders" and thought the first train would be on an adjoining siding.

The engineer continued his train on the main track and the crash resulted.

JUDGE PITTMAN ASKS 'PREFERENTIAL VOTE'

Candidate for Governor in '34 Issues Statement.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 13.—The people of Georgia are entitled to a presidential preferential primary, declared Judge Claude Pittman in a statement issued here today.

In discussing the present political situation in Georgia, Judge Pittman, who was a candidate for governor in 1934 against Governor Talmadge, said:

"It will be recalled that I projected the Roosevelt issue in the governor's campaign of 1934 on July 4 at Warm Springs. I told the people there that the re-election of Governor Talmadge would mean an effort on his part to control the state delegation to the democratic national convention in 1936 against President Roosevelt.

He will speak from the company's platform, 'State co-operation with the federal administration' or 'Roosevelt and Pittman'. The governor and his managers on the defensive before the people, so they coined a new phrase for their campaign, 'In Georgia it is Roosevelt and Talmadge'."

"I added a new plea to my platform, 'State co-operation with the federal administration' or 'Roosevelt and Pittman'. The governor and his managers on the defensive before the people, so they coined a new phrase for their campaign, 'In Georgia it is Roosevelt and Talmadge'."

CIRCUIT COURT DENIES TENNESSEAN APPEALTribunal Upholds Lower Body's Decision on Bankruptcy Act.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 13.—(P)—The United States circuit court of appeals affirmed today a lower court decision holding unconstitutional a subsection of the bankruptcy act and rejecting an application of the Tennessee Publishing Company for reorganization under Section 77-B of that act.

The decision, which included an admission by the appellate court that it was unable to understand all phases of the reorganization plan, resulted in temporary continuance of a federal receivership of the Tennessee Publishing Company, former publishers of the Nashville Tennessean and the Evening Tennessean.

The company was controlled by Colonel Luke Lea until establishment in 1933 of the receivership.

Decline To Comment.
Attaches of the court declined to comment on the import of the ruling against subsection B-5, but a bankruptcy law expert in Washington said there that "if the decision was sweeping, it might destroy the usefulness of the law entirely."

"If subsection B-5 is thrown out entirely," he said, "most businessmen would probably prefer to seek reorganization under the old equity procedure instead of under the new law."

The appellate decision, which included an admission by the court that it was unable to understand all phases of the reorganization plan proposed by the Tennessee Publishing Company, said in part:

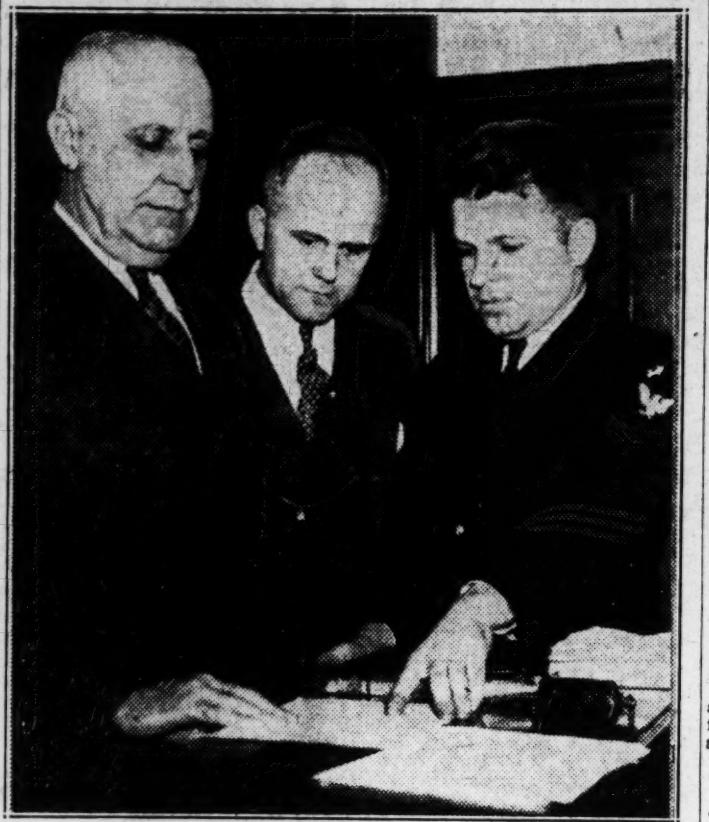

"We confine ourselves to provisions of subsection B-5 which outline a method of adjustment of claims on non-assenting creditors."
Subsection B-5 lists three specific means of satisfying creditors who refuse to join in reorganization plans of a bankrupt business and gives a fourth, saying in effect, or by such means as the judge may think equitable and fair under the circumstances.

Washington lawyers said the effect of the decision depended on whether all four methods were held invalid. The appellate judges here declined to comment.

"No Occasion Now."
Judges Florence E. Allen, Charles H. Mooreman and C. C. Simons asserted there was "no occasion for comment" on the general scope and application of the bankruptcy act as a whole and said invalidity of the subsection, B-5, left the rest of the act "an operable statute."

Subsection B-5 outlines a method of adjustment of claims of creditors who failed to assent to reorganization. It requires that two-thirds of the creditors consent to the reorganization plan and it was because that number failed to assent to the publishing company's plan, that the ap-

Legion Members Fingerprinted for Bonus

Members of Fulton County Post No. 134 of the American Legion, at their monthly meeting last night at the Wincoff hotel, had their fingerprints taken to aid in the conversion of bonus certificates into bonds. Leaders of the post stated they were not anxious for immediate cash payment of the bonus, but only for distribution of the bonds. Lieutenant Colonel Alexander German Conoley, commander of the post, is shown at left above. Center is James A. Bankston, state treasurer of the Legion, also a member of Post 134, while at right is D. pellate court upheld United States District Judge John J. Gore, of Nashville, in dismissing the company's petition for reorganization.

"We confess," the appellate court said, "our inability to understand the debtor's proposed reorganization plan in all of its phases."
Then, after reciting portions of the plan it said seemed "reasonably clear," the court said provisions for a bond issue which would form a part of the reorganization plan, "are wholly incomprehensible."

Dissents From Opinion.
The reorganization plan, calling for a return to the publishing company of all its property, includes one provision for scaling down to 80 per cent of their face value securities held by bondholders.

Judge Allen dissented from the majority opinion in one particular, that defining "good faith" as requiring feasibility of the plan proposed. She held that Judge Gore "correctly held that good faith was shown in the submission of the plan."

Judge Gore based his rejection of the petition for reorganization upon the refusal of a majority of the creditors to approve the plan. He held that provisions of the act which gave the court power to confirm a reorganization plan without the majority of the creditors were contrary to the due process clause of the constitution.

That the district judge's decision invalidating subsection B-5 left section 77-B still "an operable statute," they referred to the United States supreme court opinion that section 77 (the railroad reorganization amendment) was constitutional as indicative of the validity of the remainder of section 77-B (the corporate reorganization amendment).

INDIAN IS ACQUITTED
IN DROWNING OF GIRL

KING WILLIAM COURTHOUSE, Va., Feb. 13.—(P)—Chief Paul Miles of the Pamunkey Indians, was acquitted today of charges of manslaughter in the drowning of Doris Virginia Melton, 15-year-old high school girl, in the Pamunkey river last July 4.

The verdict was returned by the jury after 45 minutes deliberation. In his final argument, Commonwealth's Attorney D. N. Sutton, of King William, claimed the evidence showed the Indian pushed the girl into the water in a reckless manner while he paddled a boat carrying her and two chums. The three girls were on a Fourth of July picnic to the reservation.

Indian Ax Slayer Thanks
Judge for Death Sentence

GLORE, Ariz., Feb. 13.—(P)—An Apache Indian, Earl Gardner, the ax slayer of his wife and baby, thanked the judge who sentenced him today to the gallows.

"I want you to get a strong rope," Gardner told United States District Judge Albert M. Sames.

"I want it to happen immediately."
After hearing sentence pronounced, and the execution set for May 1, Gardner said:

"Thank you, May I shake hands with you?"

Judge Sames declined, saying "the court has other business."

Gardner hacked his wife and baby to death last December 8 rather than mind the infant while Mrs. Gardner attended church.

Nazis Arrest Waiter
ON ESPIONAGE CHARGE

Government Continues Campaign to Cleanse State of 'Enemies.'

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—(P)—The arrest of a waiter charged with attempting to betray secrets of Germany's naval armament was disclosed tonight as the Nazi government pushed its campaign against "enemies of the state."

The Reich war ministry said it had no knowledge of the reported arrests of 50 members of the navy in connection with an espionage plot.

(A dispatch from Copenhagen, Denmark, published near the German frontier, as saying, 50 persons in the Reich's navy were arrested at Flensburg, a city in Prussia, on espionage charges.

(A waiter, the newspaper said, who formerly was a member of the French secret service, was called the leader of the plot to secure naval secrets from Schleswig bases.)

Investigation at Flensburg disclosed a waiter was arrested there about four weeks ago by the secret police on a high treason charge. Naval men, it was said, denied involvement in the plot.

Although the utmost reticence concerning the extent of anti-Catholic action in the Reichland has still been observed in both official and Catholic circles, it was learned that Prelate Banasch, an associate of the bishop of Berlin who was arrested November 24, still is held in custody without any definite charge brought against him.

The royal initials on all Canadian postoffice department mail vehicles are to be changed from "G. R." ("Georgius Rex"), to "E. R." ("Edwardus Rex"), it is announced.

STRIKE IS AVERTED
BY GARMENT ACCORD

Pact Expected to Spur Buying; Union Demands Met.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(P)—In a spurt in the New York garment market, with the arrival of hundreds of buyers from all parts of the country within a week, was predicted today by a manufacturer as a strike of 100,000 garment workers was averted.

Officials of the International Ladies' Garment Workers and representatives of the big manufacturers' groups were agreed, after an all-night conference that climaxed several weeks' negotiation, that disputes over wage rates and jobbers' functions were settled.

Morris Kolchin, director of the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers, Inc., one of the biggest groups, said the agreement was practically in contractual form, the manufacturers bowing to the union's demands.

The strike was voted at Cleveland early in January and ratified last week by a mass meeting of garment workers here.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia intervened as a mediator.

Kolchin revealed agreement on the union's demand for direct settlement of wage rates between jobbers and workers, heretofore adjusted by contractors.

The date for its effectiveness still is to be settled.

ernor Talmadge said that he considered the state "extremely fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Dyal."

POLITICAL DISCUSSION
AT PARLEY ATTACKEDU. S. Warns London Meeting
Must Be Limited to Naval Matters.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—(P)—What were described as French efforts to link Europe's old political disputes to discussions of the four-power naval conference met a sharp rebuff today from the United States.

This development threw the parley, trying for two months to reach an agreement replacing the expiring Washington and London naval treaties, into new uncertainty.

Norman H. Davis, head of the American delegation, warned the British that the conference must be limited to naval matters.

Great Britain had asked if the Americans would permit the discussions of Franco-German, Anglo-German and Anglo-French questions.

Some observers felt this complication indicated a new danger for the success of the parley, inasmuch as the French apparently are resolved to obtain a high "trading price" if they give in on the touchy and them politically dangerous German issue.

Britain insisted that Germany be invited to London to participate in an agreement. France argued that such an invitation would be tantamount to recognition that the military clauses of the Versailles treaty are legally dead and tacit approval of the Anglo-German naval pact.

Americans are anxious to get on with the limitation discussions. In some quarters it was felt an agreement for the British and the United States to build only two ships before 1942—a proposal the powers are studying—might be dangerously restrictive to the United States and the her closely to European naval armaments while the Japanese are left to do what they please.

As a concession to the French, the committee drawing up a draft of a new treaty increased the maximum limit for aircraft carriers from 22,000 tons to 23,000.

American delegates hoped this would make France more amenable to their demand for a maximum limit of 35,000 tons for battleships. Paris wants a much smaller maximum.

ALCOHOLIC ABSTINENCE IS STIPULATED IN WILL

MANFIELD, Ohio, Feb. 13.—(P) Burton Preston III, 12, and Ruth Preston, 13, were left the bulk of their grandfather's $58,000 estate under terms of a will filed here today which gave explicit instructions against the use of alcoholic beverages and narcotics and cautioned against lending money to friends and relatives.

They are the grandchildren of Burton Preston, Sr., Mansfield granite wholesaler and world traveler, who died two weeks ago in Phoenix, Ariz. The grandchildren must execute affidavits twice a year to trustees stating abstinence or lose annual incomes of $1,000 each. When Burton is 28 the will directed that the estate be divided between them.

NEW YORKER FAVORED FOR WIDEMAN POST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(P) Robert H. Jackson, of Jamestown, N. Y., general counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, was reported tonight to be the choice of Attorney General Cummings for the position of assistant attorney-general.

Cummings called on Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, and later the senator said: "Mr. Cummings asked for my endorsement of Mr. Jackson as assistant attorney-general. I gave it."

In his present post Jackson represented the government in the income tax case brought against Andrew W. Mellon.

The resignation of Frank J. Wideman, of Florida, as assistant attorney-general was announced yesterday.

Sally Rand Protects
Young Bubble Burst

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 13.—(P)—Eleven-year-old Alfie Kreiberg—his record was against him—was balked in his plot to burst Sally Rand's big balloon but escaped punishment when the dancer interceded in his behalf.

Little Alfie recently burst another "bubble" dancer's shield at a cost of $28.50 to his father.

So when he entered a theater here last night a specially detailed patrolman recognized him. A search revealed a loaded air gun and a slingshot concealed in the boy's clothes.

Miss Rand was summoned and through her intervention Alfie was allowed to stay and see the show—sans weapons.

She asked him if he was sorry for his intentions.

"Yes'm," mumbled Alfie, "but if I had gone down that side aisle I wouldn't have been caught."

SHREWD SHOPPERS ALL!

They uncovered facts that swung millions of motorists to Fire-Chief

Some people buy gasoline on guesswork. But not Gar Wood, the speed boat king... not the purchasing agents of the great bus companies... not the expert chemists of the U. S. Government.

They've studied many different brands of gasoline... proved that all gasolines are not alike.

Motorists quickly took the hint. And found these reasons... these specific facts that show why Texaco Fire-Chief offers more than ordinary gasolines:

AN EMERGENCY DUTY gasoline... Texaco Fire-Chief meets the rigid Government specifications* for fire-engine and ambulance service. Yet it sells at regular gasoline prices.

PURCHASING AGENTS buy Fire-Chief... to satisfy the exacting requirements of important users like the famous Greyhound and other big bus lines.

FOUR OF THE FIRST-PRIZE winners for the past five years in the national bus line contests for efficiency in maintenance and operation have been regular users of Fire-Chief.

You'll find a Texaco Fire-Chief station or dealer near you... no matter where you go. Look for the sign of Texaco service whenever you need gasoline.

CITY'S U. S. EMPLOYEES

AWAIT EXTRA LEAVES

Atlanta's 5,000 federal employees were encouraged by news from Washington yesterday that a senate committee has approved an extension of the present 15-day annual leave of absence to 26 days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays.

The news was received by Harold E. Smith, president of the Atlanta branch of the American Federation of Federal Employees, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Under the new bill approved by the senate committee, employees will be allowed to let their leaves accumulate to a maximum of 60 days.

BROADER ANTI-WAR ACT
IS PROPOSED BY GROUPNye Body Will Ask Brief
Extension of Present Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—A drive for more drastic neutrality legislation was organized by a senate group today as house leaders prepared to call up the "stop-gap" bill Monday under limited debate.

Thirteen senators summoned by Chairman Nye, republican North Dakota, of the munitions committee, conferred on the extended program they will back next week during action on the measure reported by the foreign relations committee.

The committee-favored bill would extend to May 1, 1937, the arms and munitions embargo which expires February 29. It would exempt South American countries from the embargo in wars with non-American nations. It also seeks to plug loopholes which League of Nations foes thought might permit participation in "sanctions" against belligerents.

The aims of the Nye group: To seek first a 60-day extension of the present embargo law to allow time to discuss more expanded legislation.

Failing that, to attempt to attach amendments from the floor, with particular emphasis on a provision requiring those trading with belligerents to do so at their own risk.

The house leadership planned to bring the extension measure to the floor Monday, when it will be in order to suspend the rules and pass the legislation by a two-thirds vote. Only 40 minutes' debate would be allowed and no amendments would be in order.

In the senate group besides Nye were eight democrats, Pope, of Idaho; Clark, of Missouri; Donahoe, of Ohio; Bone and Schwellenbach, of Washington; Bulow, of South Dakota; Holt, of West Virginia, and Costigan, of Colorado; two republicans, Frazier, of North Dakota, and Capper, of Kansas; La Follette, progressive, Wisconsin; and Benson, farmer-labor, Minnesota.

Nye said he also had support of Senators Norris, republican, Nebraska, and Vandenberg, republican, Michigan.

HOOVER TO CONTINUE
FIGHT ON NEW DEAL

PORTLAND, Oregon, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said today he would continue an active campaign against the New Deal as long as it continues to exist.

"As I live, I shall continue fighting the New Deal as long as it exists," he asserted at a press conference.

Asked if he would continue his active campaign regardless of who wins the republican presidential nomination, he replied:

"Why go into that now? We have a big battle to keep the issues before the people until the primary. The country is facing the most critical situation in 70 years."

AT ATLANTA'S THEATERS

"Woman Wanted" Begins
Week's Run at Rialto

"Woman Wanted," new feature attraction coming to the Rialto theater today, with Maureen O'Sullivan, Joel McCrea in the star roles, is one of the most thrilling murder and gangster and love stories ever written for the screen.

The story opens with the conviction of a man for the murder of a woman. By fortuitous accident she escapes and meets the hero, a wealthy young man about town to whom she tells the story, as she knows it, of the killing for which she was "framed."

The story is concerned with their efforts to prove the girl's innocence and to save her from the clutches of a racketeering gang which believes she knows where a missing bundle of bonds is hidden.

In addition to the two popular stars, the cast includes Lewis Stone, Louis Calhern, Edgar Kennedy, Adrienne Ames and many other favorite players.

With clever short subjects to complete the program, "Woman Wanted" is to play at the Rialto for a full week, through next Thursday.

Shirley Temple Starred
In "The Littlest Rebel"

As the tiny Confederate who surrounds the Yanks with smiles, asounds them with songs and defeats them with dances, Shirley Temple returns to the screen in "The Littlest Rebel," which opens a week's engagement at the Fox theater Friday.

Able supported by a cast which includes John Boles, Jack Holt, Karen Morley and her old tap-dancing friend, Bill Robinson, Shirley plays her first great dramatic role in this screen offering.

Produced by Darryl F. Zanuck.

The story of "The Littlest Rebel" was adapted from the popular play which deals with happenings in Virginia during the Civil War.

After Shirley's father, John Boles, is called to fight for the Stars and Bars, she gets into a bad way with her family. Loyal servants help to keep the family together, but when their home comes into the line of fire, Shirley and her mother, Karen Morley, are forced to flee.

The delicate Miss Morley succumbs to the rigors of war and in a tender and affecting scene Shirley and her father are reunited.

Shirley's songs in the picture include "Polly Wolly Doodle," by Sidney Clare and B. G. DeSilva, and "If All Thy Endearing Young Charms," by B. G. DeSilva.

Directed by David Butler and produced under the supervision of B. G. DeSilva, "The Littlest Rebel" features Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, Willie Best and Frank McGlynn Sr. in the supporting cast.

"Popeye the Sailor Man" also returns to the screen in his latest starring role, "Vim, Vigor and Vitality." Popeye has a new role as proprietor of a gymnasium for women and has his troubles trying to make the fair sex healthy and strong. An interesting pictorial and Fox Movietone complete the program.

Harold Lloyd Comedy
Heads Bill at Paramount

Harold Lloyd's comedy, "The Milky Way," which comes to the Paramount theater Friday for a week's run, includes in the cast Adolphe Menjou, William Garzan, Helen Mack and Dorothy Wilson.

Laughter strews the path of the bespectacled comedian in his timid progress from the uneventful life of a milkman to the pulsing career of a middleweight fight champion.

There is a gorgeously goofy idea in this picture, the hilarity is unalloyed. Lloyd is cast as a poor sap of a milkman, an obscure fellow scared of his own shadow. He is always skipping out of trouble.

Praise is due Leo McCarey for the fast pace and uproarious situations that stud "The Milky Way."

William Garzan and Lionel Stander do exceptional work trying to knock the comedian's block off. They send their rights and lefts from many angles, but never connect. Fine performances are also given by Adolphe Menjou, Verree Teasdale, Helen Mack, Dorothy Wilson and George Barbier.

The March of Time, in its new tenth issue, is also included in the bill which comes to the Paramount theater Friday. Time turns its camera on three timely subjects—the country's most ambitious experiment in regional planning, the TVA, the recent colonization by the United States of three remote Pacific islands as bases for a new air route to Australia, and the lonely life in France, "Monsieur De Paris," hereditary quillrunner of the republic.

AT ATLANTA'S THEATERS

"Rose Marie" Will Remain
At Grand Another Week

Again the co-starring team, Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald, under W. S. Van Dyke's direction, is providing its power with the movie-going public. "Rose Marie," like their previous "Naughty Marietta," will be held over for a second week at Loew's Grand theater—ample evidence of its great popularity, considering that the theater's policy is one which adopts hold-overs only in the most exceptional cases.

Perhaps the sensational success of Nelson Eddy's concert in Atlanta last week contributes somewhat to the large audiences being attracted by "Rose Marie."

Rudolf Friml's operetta, "Rose Marie," enjoyed a two-year run in this offering after its first production; the modern screen version is considerably more substantial.

Outstanding among the tunes in "Rose Marie" is "The Indian Love Call," which few stage or screen heroes and heroines could sing as superbly as Miss MacDonald and Eddy render it. "Rose Marie" songs, and there are new tunes, added to afford those two fine singers great opportunities.

Powell-Keeler Musical
Is Held Over at Georgia

"Shipmates Forever," newest musical hit of Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler, is being held over at the Georgia theater for a week beginning today.

The famous screen lovers who made their first hit in "42nd Street," following it with "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Follies" and "The Big Broadcast," are appearing in their most recent picture in "Shipmates Forever," a thrilling drama of midship life at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Dick sings a number of catchy songs which fall naturally into the plot, he being a crooner at a New York park cafe before becoming a naval cadet. Glamorous sequences have been taken with the academy as a background, the film company having spent more than a month at Annapolis after the first setting. Other dramatic sequences were "shot" aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, flagship of the Pacific fleet, under the technical direction of naval officers.

More than a thousand cadets take part in the Annapolis scenes, while many more officers and men of the navy work with the screen players aboard the Pennsylvania.

Amateurs Take Spotlight On Capitol Stage Tonight

An interesting feature of the amateur contests staged every Friday night at the Capitol theater is the fact that the audience, by its applause, decides the winners of the prizes and the prizes themselves are presented immediately after the contest.

Tonight at 9 o'clock another group of outstanding adult amateurs will compete for the three prizes offered by the management. The first prize will be $10 in cash, the second $5 in cash and the third a one-month pass to the Capitol.

The amateur contest is presented in addition to the regular stage and screen program, and the current attraction is "The Murder of Dr. Harizan," with Mary Astor, Kay Linaker and Ricardo Cortez in the featured roles. The current stage show is "Hawaiian Follies," an entertaining revue with a cast of talented native Hawaiian singers, dancers and musicians.

There will be a complete change in program both on the stage and on the screen starting Sunday at the Capitol. The new feature picture will be "Bar 20 Rides Again," with William Boyd, Jimmy Ellinger, George Hayes and other featured roles. The new stage show will be the new road show revue, "Happy Go Lucky," offering eight acts of vaudeville with a 15-piece stage band.

5 PERSONS INJURED IN CAR-TROLLEY CRASH

DETROIT, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Five street car passengers were injured today when a truck crashed into the side of the car near the business section here. The injured, some of them unconscious, were taken to Receiving hospital. Physicians said they would recover.

The truck struck the car amidships, an iron beam projecting over the cab of the truck crashing through a window of the street car. The accident occurred during a snowstorm.

Former Atlantan's First Story Features Current Harper's Bazar

By Sally Forth.

IF YOU haven't read the amusing and sophisticated story, entitled "Visitation From Parnassus," which features the current issue of Harper's Bazar, by all means do so. For, in addition to being well worth the time it takes to read, it was written by one of your fellow townsmen, Melvin Hubbard.

Of course Melvin has not lived here since he was two years old, but then he was born on Tenth street, overlooking Piedmont park, and that is claim enough for all Atlantans to boast of his cleverness and literary gift.

The author, who now makes his home in Buffalo, N. Y., is the son of the former Miss Susie Hill, now Mrs. Melvin Hubbard Sr., of Buffalo, and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hill, all prominent and beloved erstwhile Atlantans. His maternal aunt, Miss May Hill, and his great-aunt, Miss Mary Turner, formerly of LaGrange, still reside on North Highland avenue, and they admit freely, though very shyly, of the pride they have in their talented nephew.

"He has very little time to write fiction, for he is a promising young figure in the advertising business and spends most of his time composing advertising copy," Miss Hill told Sally when the latter called to congratulate her. "But the remarkable part of it is," she continued, "that this is his first story. He submitted it to Harper's and it was accepted immediately. Not only that, but the magazine urged him to send more stories."

Which is truly remarkable, if, like Sally, you have been submitting what you considered perfectly grand stories to magazines all your life, and now have enough rejection slips to paper a good-sized room.

Melvin Hubbard writes with an easy grace in a smart, satirical style that admirably suits a sophisticated publication like Harper's. It is to be hoped that there will be a slump (just a small one, of course) in the advertising business so that he may find more time to devote to fiction.

LITTELL FUNKHOUSER MORRIS' beautiful German shepherd dog, Barron, had a new experience during the recent arctic weather. The lake behind Littell's house was frozen hard enough to allow sledding on its glassy surface. Mrs. Morris ingeniously harnessed her big dog to her sled.

Barron seemed delighted with the arrangement and joyously pulled his mistress all over the ice-coated lake. It was the only dog sled heard of during the blizzard weather.

BABY KATHERINE QUINTARD BRANCH is the third generation of her mother's family to bear the same name. She was born at a local hospital on February 12 to Mr. and Mrs. Harlie Branch Jr. Her mother is the former Katherine Quintard Hunter, who is the namesake of her grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Quintard Heath, an Atlanta grand dame. On her maternal side the infant is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hunter, and Mr. and Mrs. Harlie Branch Sr., who live in Washington, D. C., are her paternal grandparents.

THE way of a maid with a man has been recorded time after time—but coming to Sally's ears today is the way of a maid with a policeman. One day recently that clever and vivacious Espie Dallas was dashing into town in her car. As a usual thing, Espie's trip is straight in on Peachtree street, but on this occasion she found that in order to join a friend that Piedmont road was the best route.

So down she went cruising along in her car at a moderate speed. Not far from the traffic lights on the street, the red signal at a cross street meant nothing to Espie, and defying all traffic laws she sped right on.

Soon the shrill whistle of the motorcycle cop was heard, and Espie pulled up to the curb and the cop with his little blue book was all set to give her a copy of charges. "Well, lady, I suppose you didn't see that red light," he said with sarcasm.

Espie, noted for her wit, opened her wide eyes and replied, "Mais, je ne sais pas." No words nor methods on the part of the cop could make her answer in any other way except in the French, which of course means, "But, I don't know."

"Say, lady," he insisted, "that red light means stop and it's working, and you crossed on it and I'll have to give you a copy." "Mais, je ne sais pas—je ne sais pas," insisted Espie.

"Aw, h—, lady, drive on; you don't know what you are talking about, and I don't either!"

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

(Mr. Culbertson is acting as referee and reporter for a "grudge" bridge game. By general agreement he fines the players for their errors according to degree of stupidity. Class A errors cost them $1; Class B, $2.50; Class C, $5; Class D, $10. This is the fourth hand in the series.)

"Well," said West cheerfully, "this isn't a bad idea at all! I've had rotten cards and should be a considerable loser. But actually I've paid only one minimum fine and now have a 25 per cent equity in an $10 kitty."

"Better do your gloating now," growled South. "Your turn will come."

As it happened, the next hand fulfilled the prophecy.

West, dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 1 diamond Pass 2 clubs
Pass 2 diamonds Pass 2 no trp
Pass 3 no trp (final bid)

West opened his fourth highest heart, dummy played low, and East's king won. The heart lead was returned, declarer winning with the jack and the diamond suit was cleared. West taking the ace. West proceeded to clear his heart suit by leading the third round. But he had taken his last trick, the diamond suit was run off, and followed by five tricks in clubs. The contract was fulfilled with two extra tricks.

West must have realized his guilt, because I could see him looking apprehensively at me.

"You were a little premature in your gloating," I said to him. "That defense will cost you just $5—and I'm being lenient at that."

"What should I have done?" asked

Fancy Dress Ball.

A fancy dress ball celebrating St. Valentine's Day will be held at the East Lake Country Club on Saturday evening. A number of reservations have been made for the party, which promises to be one of the most interesting of the winter season.

West, considerably chastened.

"You should have estimated the opponents' probable tricks more accurately! You actually could see four diamond and two heart tricks, and certainly there was a poor chance, considering the bidding, that East could stop the club suit. You should have abandoned the hearts as a hopeless proposition and shifted to a low spade. Your one hope was for East to hold the king."

"Why couldn't East have led a spade after he won the king of hearts?" asked West defensively.

"Because he couldn't be sure about the heart situation. You might hold five to the queen-ten, with one entry. In that case it would be vital for him to return the heart lead."

"Come on," growled South. "Pay up—don't try to crawl out of it! And next time maybe you'll do your gloating inwardly."

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: My partner opened the bidding, first hand, not vulnerable, with a bid of one spade. Next hand passed. I held:

Spade J 7 4, heart J 2, diamond K 10 9 6 3, club Q 5 2. What should I bid?

Answer: Your best response is two spades, although you have slightly less than adequate support. If you should answer with one no-trump, a spade rebid by your partner would leave you in the dark as to whether to raise or to pass.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

Miss Adelaide Fleming Typifies St. Valentine Day Spirit

Miss Adelaide Fleming, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, exquisitely typifies the spirit of Saint Valentine's Day as she poses in a lace frame surrounded by hearts. Her blond loveliness is enhanced by the old-fashioned costume, and the fringed umbrella is similar to those which ladies of long ago carried above their shapely heads to shield them from the rays of the sun. Miss Fleming is known to her intimates as "Lady," a nickname given her during her childhood. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Of course it isn't safe these days to express any adverse opinion on divorce in private conversation or in public print. There are always tender toes on which one treads. Besides, adverse opinions mark one out as a person who is behind the times. Yet there are people who may speak their minds on the subject without fear of being accused of bad taste or old-fashioned ideas. These are the people who have marched up the hill to the divorce courts and have marched down again free, but far from independent.

Gals, if you are under the mistaken impression that divorce is the cure-all for the heartaches your marriages have netted you, if you believe that divorce will solve the marital problems that you have been unable to work out, you should read the letters that come to this column. They will put you "plum out" with divorce and almost convince you, if not quite, that instead of curing heartaches and solving problems, the cutting of your marriage ties will make pains more acute and multiply problems as mama and papa guinea pigs multiply progeny.

Here they speak, some who have remarried following divorce and some who haven't:

"If I had it to do over again I'd never make the break. I was angry. I felt outraged. The only thing I considered was being rid of a man who had caused me so much unhappiness. I didn't think of his falling in love and re-marrying. I didn't think of his having more children who would come before our children. It didn't occur to me that anything or anybody could separate him from our sons. The awful part of it is that I still feel he is mine and I am as jealous of his wife and as resentful toward her as if she had stolen my husband from me. My second husband is good to me and good to the boys but he isn't happy because I can't hide the truth from him. I am married to another."

"I divorced my husband 10 years ago because he was so stingy life wasn't worth living. He quarreled every time I bought a pair of shoes. My clothes were always shabby and the children would have looked like waifs if I hadn't worked my fingers to the bone washing, ironing and making over garments. I thought I deserved a better husband and I knew I could get a better one if I didn't wait too long. But how wrong I was! Men are not keen to take on ready-made families. Now I am working to support my children but they can't have the education they might have had if I had used my head. We at least had a home and knew where our next meal was coming from, which is more than we have known since."

Reader, review your list of wives who have rushed into the divorce courts, thinking that divorce decrees would make them girls again, set them on the carpet where, as in the old days, they might take their choice of eligible men, begin all over again and carve out happy lives for themselves. My clothes were always shabby and the children would have looked like waifs if I hadn't worked my fingers to the bone washing, ironing and making over garments. I thought I deserved a better husband and I knew I could get a better one if I didn't wait too long. But how wrong I was! Men are not keen to take on ready-made families. Now I am working to support my children but they can't have the education they might have had if I had used my head. We at least had a home and knew where our next meal was coming from, which is more than we have known since."

Don't suppose that the old couple who celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary haven't experienced many a fit of incompatibility on the long journey. Don't suppose that any man and woman who stay married over a long period haven't suffered the pangs of mental cruelty at one another's hands. Surely the wife whose husband has had too much to drink every week-end and every holiday since their marriage has had a hard time of it. Surely the husband whose wife has kept his nose to the grindstone has thought wistfully of other men whose wives have helped them get ahead. But there is one big difference between those who have run out and those who have stuck. The stickers could take it. And for the most part the stickers have fared a lot better than the runners. The Miss Bullard Honored.

Miss Katherine Bullard, whose marriage to Albert Harris Erwin Jr., will be an interesting event of Saturday, was honored at two delightful parties this week. Mrs. Frances Williams complimented her with a dinner party and a miscellaneous shower on Tuesday evening at her home on North avenue and Wednesday Mrs. Frederick Paxton and Mrs. Carl Helreich honored her at a beautifully appointed luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Individual who can't take it the first time isn't likely to take it the second time unless it is pleasant. And for one woman there is always a big question as to whether or not she will have the opportunity to try again.

SIMPLE FROCK A "YOUNGER SET" BUDGET FASHION FOR SPRING.

Brief as a wink, and neat as its sailor collar, is this "younger set" fashion which looks so adorable on youngsters from two to ten. It's a self-help coat-frock that teaches chubby fingers to dress themselves, and is doubly easy for the one who makes it up. Is there anything as crisp as shoulder-to-hip pleats which, stitched part way, stay in press from one laundering to the next? Anything as fresh and youthful as a white or light sail-collared next the face? Sleeves may be balloon effect, or flared, while accompanying bloomers may match or contrast. If for school or play—choose a gingham, percale or other cotton; if for best, cross-hatched dimity is nice.

Pattern 3395 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 takes 2 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 3-8 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

My Day
By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C.—I just had the pleasure of seeing Helen Howe in some of her monologues. The audience was filled with women from every part of the country.

Her first monologue pictured a French girl starting off for the United States and leaving her fiancé on the dock, and at once making friends with an American who offers to "show her New York."

It was very amusing, but did not strike home as much to any of us as her second one, which she calls "The Hundred Percenters." Here Miss Howe certainly does a wonderfully clever portrayal of the "earnest, organized woman."

I think many of us saw ourselves in our own organizations, and heard ourselves, at the start of some particular day's entertainment, introducing our various heads of committees to the press. The press in this particular sketch seems a trifle obtuse.

Her last monologue was called "The Afternoon Sail" and was almost too realistic for the audience. I heard many people around me say that they would have liked to hear a much longer program, which is a triumph for any performer.

Miss Byrd Elyot, a cousin of Admiral Byrd, played the violin in a masterly fashion, and Mildred Dilling was, as always, a joy on the harp. I could hardly sit still when Miss Dilling played the "March of the Men of Harlech," which she told us was one of Queen Victoria's favorite tunes.

I can vouch for the fact that the men around me could have marched with great ease, for all of them were keeping time with their feet.

I am just starting off for Cornell University for Farm and Home Week, which I have been attending annually for several years. I hope that the weather will be kind, for I should hate to meet with a blizzard on the way.

However, one can but trust to luck.

A Hot Oil Shampoo That Will Convert You in One Trial

By MIGNON.

I want to tell you today of a reconditioning oil, made by people whose business it is to manufacture things for the hair only, and very fine ones. A hot oil shampoo given with this preparation leaves the hair more manageable than any other shampoo I've ever tried.

The general appearance of the hair as a whole is improved, because of the relaxing effect of the oil on the scalp and hair. The ends of the hair come soft and pliant instead of being unkempt and split. The treatment banishes dandruff and dry cuticle. Even the color seems more attractive, as the hair takes on a natural luster, and the highlights are accentuated. The first time I used it, there was a sheen and brilliance to my tresses that I hadn't seen there in a long time.

If the hair is dry, apply a pomade, rubbed between the palms and then applied to the hair; if oily, an astringent tonic, both made by the manufacturers of the reconditioning oil.

The same women make a wave lotion that is pleasant and easy to use. It is not sticky or gummy, and will not leave a sediment on the hair or scalp. On the other hand, woman's crowning glory after this treatment and wave set, will be naturally soft and lustrous.

If you wish to know the names of the products mentioned above and where they may be purchased, phone Mignon at The Constitution. Do not write unless you live outside the city, in which event send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Orange Cake Is Renamed California Sunshine Cake

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

Lois wanted to make a cake that was new and different. She thought she wanted to use a sponge, rather than a butter, cake batter. And she wanted to use up some oranges she had on hand. She searched through her clipped recipes and failed to find exactly what she wanted. But she acquired an idea. The cake she finally made was a sponge layer cake put together with an orange filling topped with an orange icing. The rich yellow color of the fruit was further accentuated by the yellow of egg yolk. Roger named the new cake of which he ate three pieces at a sitting, by the attractive name of California sunshine cake. "Gosh, I don't know any other place where the sunshine is as bright and I don't know any other cake that is so good. So here we are with a grand name for it." Lois jotted down the name and copied off her recipe.

She beat four egg yolks until they were lemon colored. Then she added three-quarters cup sugar and beat again. One quarter cup orange juice and one teaspoon grated lemon rind went in next. She sifted, measured and sifted one cup cake flour, added one and one-half teaspoons tartaric baking powder and one-quarter teaspoon salt.

The flour was folded in. Then she beat four egg whites and added one-quarter cup sugar to them. They were folded in and the batter was put in layer cake pans and baked in a moderate oven. The filling was made by cooking one egg yolk, one-quarter cup sugar and the grated rind of one-half orange with two tablespoons orange juice and one teaspoon lemon juice. After standing 15 minutes this was strained and poured over an egg yolk, which had been creamed with one tablespoon butter. A few grains salt were added. The confectioner's sugar was added until the frosting was of the right consistency to spread.

I'm so sorry about your sister."

"We talked together last night."

Mrs. Prendergast said. "We parted friends."

"You did? Oh, I'm so glad! Does Rand know that?"

"Flora does. But I told her only tonight, and she may not have told him. Yes; poor Fanny! Mrs. Prendergast said, dreamily. "Although," she added, "it was a good way to go. Page, just going to sleep. She wasn't young Fanny. She was only five years younger than I."

"She was very beautiful, once. Sit down here on the bed, Page. I want to talk to you a minute. This last thing has decided me—we're all going away. Do you want to come with me to Connecticut?"

Page had considered the possibility of this offer before. She answered without hesitation. "To get you settled—to be sure you were comfortable—of course I'd come. I've never been out of California; I'd love it."

"That unfortunate boy will still have the diamond, of course. We can do nothing about that. You've done your best. The men who came down here from Pinkerton's told me that that's the fate of all diamonds; they are lost sooner or later. Well—"

Page was conscious, in the pause, that her heart was beating fast. She laid her hand on Mrs. Prendergast's hand again.

"I meant to tell you this sooner," she said. "But I was asleep all afternoon, and when I came in before dinner Flora and Rand were here. I have the diamond."

Mrs. Prendergast looked at her first in silence, then asked in a quiet voice, "What did you say, my dear?"

But Page saw the terrible change in her eyes.

"Lynn gave it to me today. But he made me promise not to give it to you until Saturday. Then I'm to put it into your hand."

"You have it?"

"I have had it. And I will have it on Saturday, and give it to you. That was the only way he would give it to me, Mrs. Prendergast," Page said trembling.

"You had better give it to me now."

"I can't. He made me swear that, and I can't go back on my word. I can't play fast and loose with it that way my dear. The affectionate little term was quite obviously an afterthought; her tone was grim.

"You give it to me, and I'll see Lynn."

Page seized her courage with every fiber of resistance she had. She assumed a coaxing tone that had often worked well with her old employer.

"You'll wait until Saturday, won't you, Duchess? Why, just think, that's only a few days! And meanwhile you can be getting things in order, making your plans. There's Lynn to think of, you know."

He says he was promised his little cabin and his boat and enough to live on. That's not much—"

"You have got it?" the older woman asked fiercely.

"I have indeed. I promise to give it to you on Saturday, and meanwhile it's in a safe place."

Mrs. Prendergast brooded upon this for a full half-minute. "Tomorrow's Wednesday, Thursday, Friday," she said musingly. "And Saturday we could—Send Rand in to me!" she broke off to say suddenly. "And you take yourself off to bed, my dear."

she added, in her kindest tone. "You look tired."

"I hope our long diamond hunt is over," Page said, with her good nights. She went to her own room reassured. Whatever the mystery, the tragedy, whatever even the crimes of Mystery House might be, they were all but solved as far as Page Hazel-type was concerned.

She took a hot bath, put a hot bottle in between the fine heavy linen sheets, adjusted her reading light and flung two books on her bed. Then she went to the western window and opened it, and took a look at the moonlit night. A light burned in the little cabin where Lynn slept; he had been isolated there upon first coming to Mystery House because of the nature of his illness; he and Rand stayed there by choice ever since.

Page turned back and got into bed; she was settling herself comfortably when Flora tapped on the connecting door, and came in from her own room.

Flora looked like a ghost, but she reported herself as better after sleep, and observed that she was just going in to Mrs. Prendergast's room to say good night before proceeding downstairs for some food. It was all normal and comfortable enough; Flora's more cheerful voice, her reappearance presently with bread and milk and cold chicken, her companionship, for she left the door between the rooms open, and when Page flung aside her book and turned out her light Flora was still reading.

Page had thought that she would lie awake, worrying over Mrs. Roy's sudden death. Lynn's strange references to his own danger, and her own suddenly aroused apprehension as to the safety of Mystery House for any of them; Rand, herself, Lynn. Then there was the curious possibility of Mrs. Prendergast's not being actually involved to consider; why should any woman pretend to be helpless if she were not?

But all of these things merged together strangely into waking dreams before she was fairly warm and comfortable, and presently were mingled into real dreams, and presently were lost as Page sank into the deep slumber that naturally attended youth and fatigue and long hours in the salt sweet air of Mystery House.

Everything looked more cheerful in the morning, and the late mournful event of an old lady's death during her first hours under their roof appeared to be completely forgotten. Forgotten, too, by Lynn, was the diamond episode, or at least when he joined Page at breakfast his talk was all of a "Yonkers" jellyfish that had strangely surrounded his favorite refuge on Rock Island.

They had not gotten far into their meal before Rand came down, to be followed presently by an unusually composed and agreeable Flora.

"Well," Rand said, attacking his eggs, "I had quite a talk with the Duchess last night, and it's marching orders!"

"When do we go?" Flora asked with an air of interest. But Page knew from her tone that what was acting; this news was no surprise to her.

"Early on Saturday, I imagine. We drive—oh, maybe as far as Truckee that night. Anyway, we get started. The Duchess proposes to leave things pretty much as they are, here, and leave a couple of the boys in charge until she sees how the likes the eastern climate after so many years. We're taking two cars, and we hope to pick up a good driver in Sacramento. Page, I've forgotten whether you can drive or not."

"I can't. I wish I could!"

"Ma Choy drives. The idea is that we fix the Duchess up comfortably in the back seat of the big car, you and Flora take turns on the jump seats, and the other girls sit with me. The luggage goes in the other car and is all in our rooms when we get to our hotels at night."

"Oh, Rand, fun!" Page exclaimed, her eyes dancing and all her fears forgotten. Murder and mysteries and communing with the dead—what nonsense!

Presently, when Lynn was gone, Page asked, "What do we do with Lynn?"

"Didn't he want to stay here and putter about by himself. The doctor said, 'That's what she promised him, isn't it?'"

"For the return of the diamond, yes," Page said simply. Her eyes met Rand's, and she saw from his flush that he had spoken without preconsideration.

"Flora knows that you have the Red Anna; the duchess told us both," he said at once. "She's tremendously excited, of course—the duchess, I mean. We've been talking of nothing else. That's why the plan to get away has been made so suddenly."

"I think this place has sad associations for her," Flora now put in lifelessly. "My mother—and Mrs. Roy—"

"But the point of the whole thing is that she doesn't want to wait until Saturday for that diamond," Rand said.

Page glanced at him quickly. She felt her throat get a little dry, and her spine a little cold, and she knew that she was trembling. "That was Lynn's condition," she pleaded. "After all, he isn't quite responsible, is he? If he feels it so strongly—"

"He oughtn't to be humored," Flora said quickly, nervously.

"It isn't humoring him. He has some confused idea that Mrs. Prendergast herself gave him the diamond."

"Nonsense," Rand said good naturedly. "The only real question," he added, "is whether you yourself wouldn't rather be rid of the responsibility. What possible purpose is served by your own refusal?"

If Flora had not been there Page would have told him the truth. That poor benighted Lynn actually feared for his life if this claim on Mrs. Prendergast's protection were removed.

Page would not talk before Flora; Flora would repeat everything to the old lady. Lynn would be betrayed. So Page assumed an expression of puzzlement, and said vaguely that whether there were any good reason for the three days' delay or not, that was the condition Lynn had made.

"I suppose you could break that condition, and he be none the wiser?"

Dr. Hazard said. "It would be simple enough thing for him to ask!"

"I know. But it naturally annoys the duchess."

"Annoys her? Infuriates her?"

Flora put in sharply.

"Why, but it's only a matter of three days."

"You positively have the stone?" Rand asked, watching both women with his favorite half-amused and half-detached expression.

"Oh, yes; I have it. And safe, too."

"After all, Page," Rand said lazily, "if you handed it over to the Duchess today, what could Lynn do?"

Her quick look reproached him. "I'm not thinking of Lynn; I'm thinking of myself!"

"She's nervous—she's all wrought up about it," Rand apologized. "Her sister's death—everything has rather conspired to upset her. She said—I rather think I can talk her out of it—but she was talking of calling in the police."

"Ha!" Flora muttered, in a sort of cold triumph.

"You mean—for them to question me?" Page asked, amazed at her own coolness and amusement. "You couldn't get the police to get the whole thing through their heads before Saturday."

Her quick look reproached him. "It seems to me that she ought to be thanking me, instead of threatening me with the police."

"That's just the way she isn't appreciative!" Rand said quickly.

VALENTINE DAY

WAS BEGUN IN HONOR OF SAINT VALENTINE

February 14 was a day for lovers to send greetings, long before St. Valentine was born. It was a regular part of the "Feast of the Lupercalia," celebrated in honor of June. Each young man would draw a maiden's name from an urn and was supposed to devote himself to her for a year. The festival was being observed on the day St. Valentine was being put to death, February 14, 270 A. D., and many of the Christians began naming the day in his honor after that.

It is because of this that it is now called "St. Valentine's Day" in Christian countries, although it was an old custom before St. Valentine's birth.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

VISITS IN MOUNTAIN STATES.

In Salt Lake City, a monument which is different from any I have seen elsewhere. It is a column with two sea gulls on the top, and it points back to a story of pioneer days in Utah.

The early Mormon settlers reached Utah in the summer, and the following winter was a hard one for them. To obtain wood for fuel, they made long trips to the mountains. Their food was made up in part of roots and thistles.

The harvest would be destroyed. Then great flocks of sea gulls appeared, and they ate the crickets—thus saving the crops. This event took place in the year 1848, and the Mormons speak of it as a miracle. It brought about a law to guard sea gulls in Utah during later years.

Today Utah has a population of more than half a million people. In large part it is covered by mountains, but there are valleys which have been made to bear good crops—partly by building dams and cutting canals.

Some mountains in Utah are of great beauty and rise to a height of more than two miles. In the southwestern part of the state is the famed Bryce canyon, also Zion national park.

The mountains are important for reasons besides scenery. They contain metals of many kinds. Some of the leading silver mines of the United States are in Utah. Gold, copper, lead and zinc are mined as well.

Perhaps the most famous sight in Utah is Great Salt Lake. This lake is about 15 miles distant from Salt Lake City.

The water in Great Salt Lake is more salty than that in any ocean, though not so salty as the Dead Sea of Palestine. If you take five quarts of water from Great Salt Lake, and let it dry away in the sun, there will be left just about one quart of salt.

Great Salt Lake is what remains from a large sea which once covered a much larger area. Some of the salt beds in Utah are 2,000 feet deep.

RESERVOIR PROJECTS PLANNED ARKANSAS

Program Sought to Harness
Mississippi Flood Waters.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 13. (P)—A vast program of 29 reservoirs to harness flood waters on the upper reaches of Mississippi river tributaries was urged upon congress today by an Arkansas valley's association conference.

Approximately 250 representatives of eight southern and western states unanimously adopted a resolution proposing an amendment of the Overton flood control bill to include the $126,000,000 reservoir program for Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Colorado.

Mayor R. E. Overman, of Little Rock, elected permanent president of the Arkansas valley's group, today declared that the association is not advocating power development or navigation in order not to "arouse opposition of a powerful bloc."

He explained that with the exception of the Wildcat Shoals dam and reservoir on the upper White river in Arkansas, electric power development is not contemplated at any of the proposed reservoirs included in the program submitted to congress.

The resolution adopted by the conference said that "such other projects as may be approved by the corps of engineers" will have the effect of alleviating the distress encountered in the Arkansas valley, which we contend is entitled to relief measures only by the amount of relief which may be allotted the greatest number of people.

"The construction of the reservoirs on the Arkansas and White rivers," said the resolution, "and the resulting control of waters there involved will reduce the height of flood waters upon the Mississippi river at Arkansas City, Ark., by 5.38 feet, based on the 1927 flood height, thereby accomplishing the desired result of providing relief upon the lower Mississippi and locally upon the valleys of the Arkansas, White and Black rivers."

PURPLES DOWN SMITHIES, 20-17, IN FAST GAME

Boys' High Makes Clean Sweep of Series With Bitter Rivals.

Boys' High made a clean sweep of its two-game series with Tech High and moved into second place in the city prep basketball league with a 20-17 victory over the Smithies Thursday afternoon on the Henry Grady court. The game was moved up from February 28, when both teams will be participating in the annual G. I. A. A. tourney at Macon.

Tech High's reserve team which easily defeated the varsity in practice two days ago, played a major part in the game and looked particularly good. The Smithies led, 6 to 5, at the quarter, and were on the short end of a 14-10 count at the half.

Boys' High's passing game was not up to its standard in the first half, but in the second half, particularly in the fourth quarter, the Purples displayed a much better brand of ball and won out in the closing minutes of play.

The scoring was well divided on both teams, and rarely ever did any player on either team have a "crip" shot. The defense was such that most of the shots were made off guard and as a result the scoring was low.

Orestein and Tenney were outstanding for the Purples, both offensively and defensively. Traylor, recovering from an attack of flu, played well during the last quarter when he substituted for Goldberg.

McDaniel and Enloe, at forwards, and Terrell at guard played well for the Smithies.

G. M. A. To Play Tech High Today
G. M. A. and Tech High will play the feature game of the city prep basketball league this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Henry Grady court.

Monroe Aggies, the league leaders, with eight straight, meet Columbus Industrial, tied with Boys' High for second place, on the Columbus court.

Marist and Boys' High were scheduled, but since Marist has been suspended from both the Fifth District and the N. G. I. C. for the remainder of the basketball season, that game will be cancelled.

Commercial High, the other member of the league, drew a bye, but will play Druid Hills at 8 o'clock tonight on the North Fulton court in the second round of the annual tourney.

SANDLOT MEET IN BIRMINGHAM

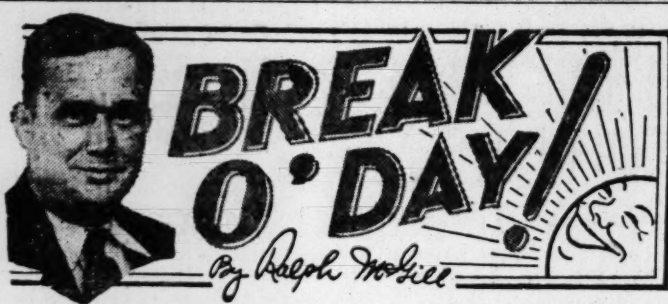

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 13.—(P)—Magnates of sandlot baseball—representing three organizations and thousands of teams—will gather here tomorrow to discuss possible changes in eligibility rules and to select sites for 1936 tournaments.

The National Amateur Baseball Federation, the American Baseball Congress and the Mid-South Amateur Athletic Association will hold joint sessions as guests of the Birmingham Baseball Federation, one of the largest groups in the nation.

As an added attraction for the gathering, the home organization will conduct a two-day baseball school, with Ben Chapman, New York Yankee outfielder, Virgil Davis, catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, and Sewell, former major league infielder, and Billy Bancroft, Southern and Texas league player, as teachers.

Sewell's part in the school will be especially noted by many of the delegates, since he will deal principally with managing and handling the business affairs of baseball clubs.

Directors of the national federation will meet tomorrow night, but selection of a site for the 1936 national tourney is not expected until Sunday.

Eight of Ten Ranking Money Winners of 1935 Entered.

By Kenneth Gregory.
THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 13.—(P)—Eight of the nation's ten leading money winners of the 1935 golf season headed a colorful field today for the last practice rounds before the start of the 72-hole Thomasville open golf tournament tomorrow.

Johnny Revolta, national P. G. A. champion, and top money winner last year, led the delegation of ranking professionals gathered here for the inaugural open tournament over the hardwood Glen Arven Country Club course, one of the oldest layouts in the south.

Long before the turn of the century the course was designed, and has been used since its construction. The original course was a nine-hole sand greens layout and with the increased popularity of golf was enlarged about 10 years ago, grass greens being installed for 18 holes.

Difficult to negotiate, the course today stretches 6,444 yards over rolling terrain and winds through virgin pine forests. It is a sports layout, composed of 10 dog-leg holes. The 18th green offers a serious test, being a 485-yard par five, with a dog-leg, a brook and a steep hill to negotiate.

Orville White, all-bronzed pro from the Meadowbrook Country Club at Overland, Mo., established himself as a contender for the top purse by more than a score of the ranking professionals were already on hand, including, in addition to Revolta and White, Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill., K. Laidlow, Vic Cheney, Roy Mangrum, Wiffy Cox, "Wild Bill" Mehler, Henry Picard, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Hines and Ted Luther.

Gene Sarazen, of Brookline Center, Conn., named for the Florida sun, is on hand and after a tour of the hazardous course predicted the winning score would be 290 or more.

Sarazen, considerably overweight, said he is trying to get off some poundage in preparation for the summer tournaments. He stroked the course here yesterday in 74, two over par for the difficult 18-hole layout containing 100 dog legs and winding through hills and virgin pine forest.

Babe Ruth, who was expected for the tournament, wired from St. Petersburg, Fla., that he would be unable to attend because of his wife's illness.

Heavy rains swept the sporty Glen Arven course today, leaving the greens and fairways soggy for the opening 18-hole round.

The second 18 holes will be played Saturday, with the 36 holes being eligible for the final 36 holes Sunday. First-place prize is $700. Trophies have been provided for the first three finishers.

ONE-ARM PRO.
Leland Crews, the Glen Arven professional who holds the course record of 66, was entered. Also entered were Jimmy Nichols, the one-armed pro from Valdosta, Ga.

Helen Hicks, former national women's golf champion, and Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, the all-around athlete who recently took up golf, were here in spectator roles.

Other entries in the $3,000 tournament included Tommy Sullivan, of Milledgeville; John Oliver, of Valdosta; Willie Piatte, of Bainbridge; Tony Penna, of Pensacola; Warren May, of Springdale; Ray Raynor and C. D. Moore, of Tifton; Dan Goss, of Birmingham; Frank Goss, of Fort Benning; B. K. White, of Mobile; John Budde, of Tallahassee; and Zell Eaton, of Oklahoma City, former western amateur champion.

HAGEN, SARAZEN SLATED TO PLAY IN $3,000 MEET

Eight of Ten Ranking Money Winners of 1935 Entered.

By Kenneth Gregory.
THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 13.—(P)—Eight of the nation's ten leading money winners of the 1935 golf season headed a colorful field today for the last practice rounds before the start of the 72-hole Thomasville open golf tournament tomorrow.

Johnny Revolta, national P. G. A. champion, and top money winner last year, led the delegation of ranking professionals gathered here for the inaugural open tournament over the hardwood Glen Arven Country Club course, one of the oldest layouts in the south.

NORWEGIANS, GERMANY TAKE OLYMPIC LEAD

Two Countries Capture 3 More Titles; America Drops, Canada Loses.

By Gayle Talbot.
GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 13.—(P)—The two top-ranking nations of the fourth winter Olympic games, Germany and Norway, garnered three more championships today as Canada suffered another major hockey reverse, this time on the convention floor.

Meanwhile the United States once again found the competitive pace too swift and European skill too great to overcome. America's only point-producing performances comprised a fourth place for Leo Freisinger, youthful Chicagoan, in the 1,500-meter speed skating final and a fifth place for the national champions, Maribel Vinson and George E. B. Hill, in the pairs figure-skating championship.

Seven days of competition in the winter games have resulted in nothing better than one third place for the United States. Freisinger gained that spot in the 500-meters speed skating final.

After Norway had picked up 35 points in the skating championship and the combination ski cross-country-jumping event, and taken a temporary lead, Germany bounced back to the top of the unofficial team rankings when Maxie Herber and Ernest Baier captured the pairs figure skating crown.

TEAM HONORS.
Although the point totals tonight showed Germany in front by a dwindling margin, 107 to 105, there was every prospect that Norway would capture the team honors for the first time since 1928.

With the redoubtable Sonja Henie favored to retain the women's figure skating crown and Norse skiers and skaters almost certain to dominate the remaining events in their specialties, Norway seems to hold the winning cards in this unofficial phase of the winter games.

There is no official team "title" in the Olympics, however. Various point-scoring methods are used, according to national standards.

The United States was well down the list with 15 1/2 points. The chances of a single triumph for the Americans have dwindled.

Canada suffered a terrific blow to its hopes of a surprising Olympic hockey championship when a motion for revision of the rules governing the final round-robin series was voted down, 6 to 2. Only Canada and Germany supported the proposal.

CANADIAN SETBACK.
This action means that Canada's stunning 2-1 setback by England, in the second round-robin series, will be charged against the Dominion in the finals. Under the rules, finalists who have met in a previous round are not required to play each other again.

England thus will start the final series with one victory and Canada with one defeat before competition actually begins. The Canadians have no opportunity of avenging its defeat, the first the Dominion ever suffered in Olympic competition.

The United States also went into the finals with one game in hand, winning its place in the last round-robin with a 2-0 victory over Sweden. The Americans previously had beaten the fourth finalist, Czechoslovakia. Completing the second round, Canada trounced Germany, 6 to 2; England defeated Hungary, 5 to 1; and Czechoslovakia turned back Austria, 2 to 1.

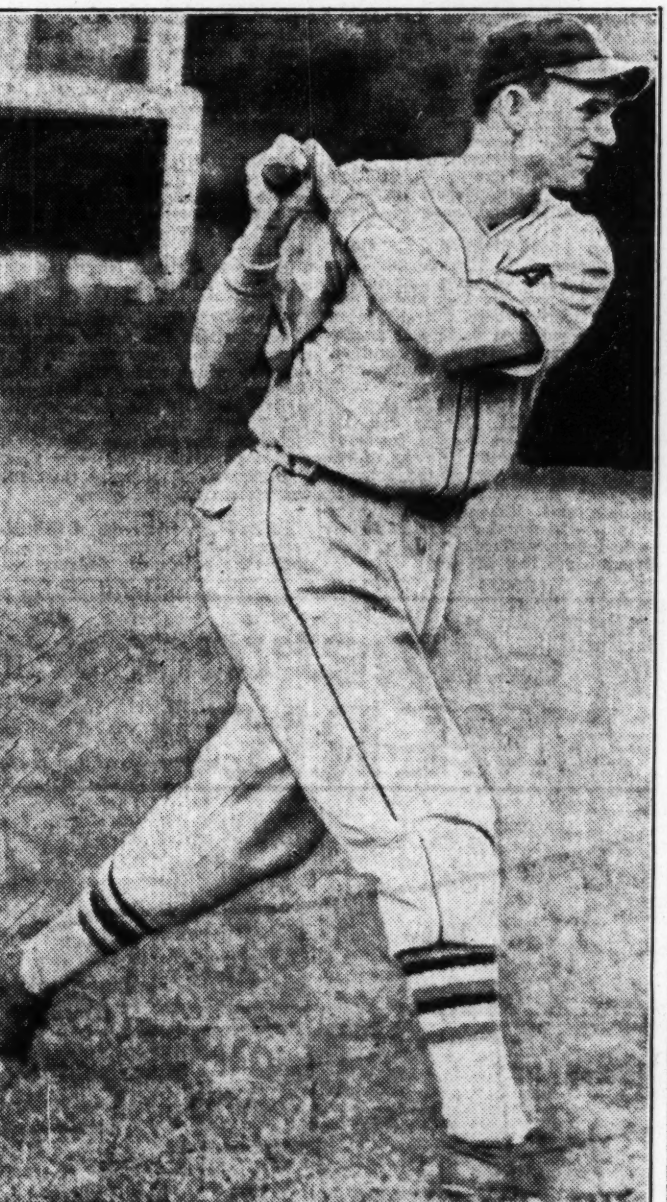

Charles Mathisen led the way to Norway's cleanup in speed skating, winning the 1,500-meter race with a sensational victory in two minutes, 19.2 seconds that bettered Clas Thunberg's Olympic record by 1.9 seconds. Ivar Dahl, of Sweden, won the 500-meter race in 44.2 seconds, and the 5,000-meter title for Norway was second. Freisinger's fourth place saved America from a complete rout in this event.

SKI COMBINATION.
The ski combination, based on performances in the 18-kilometer cross-country run and slalom competition, saw Oldbjoern Hagen, Olaf Hoffsbakken and Sverre Brodahl, all of Norway, finish 1-2-3. Karl Magnus Ström, of Salsburg, Co., was the American runner-up, finishing fourth.

The German pair of Herber and Baier was based on sound technical knowledge, rather than acrobatics. Their routine was executed to the accompaniment of special music, composed by Baier. Other contestants used music only as a background.

Alex Hooks Signs Cracker Contract

Operation on Throwing Hand a Success, Star First Sacker Expects Big Year.

By Jack Troy.
The signed contract of Alex Hooks, the best first baseman in the Southern league, yesterday found its way to the desk of President Earl Mann, of the Crackers.

So Thursday, the 13th, bringing the 28th contented Cracker into the fold, left only seven players unsigned.

The unsigned now include Johnny Hill, Jim Lindsey, Bill Schmidt, Luther Thomas, Ralph West, Almon Williams and Dave Harris.

Hooks recently underwent an operation in Dallas for removal of a growth on his throwing hand. Three specialists were called in, none of the three ever having attempted an operation of the sort before.

Hooks took a local anesthetic and spent 35 minutes watching the surgeons at work. They removed the nerve to which was attached two eyes.

HAND HEALING.
In a letter to President Mann, Hooks said the operation was a success and that his hand was healing rapidly.

"I'll report at Gulfport on the 17th," Hooks said. "That's when the regulars will start work. The first contingent of the Crackers will reach Gulfport on March 4."

Hooks is looking forward to a big year in 1936. He had a fine year last year despite the fact that he played with his thumb strapped. He hit .341 in 106 games and was outstanding in the field.

The late Tharzan, who was a fine athlete under Ray Morrison at Southern Methodist, is planning a season that may land him back in the majors.

MAJOR LEAGUER.
Certainly if he plays as well as he did last year with the handicaps of an injured thumb, there is no reason why he shouldn't be a major leaguer playing in the minors this summer.

SHOWDOWN SEEN IN CONTROVERSY AT WISCONSIN

Regents and Athletic Council Ready to War Over Rights.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 13.—(P)—Beneath the ranking Spears-Meanwell controversy at the University of Wisconsin simmered today a tussle between the athletic council and regents over control of athletics, especially the department personnel.

With the regents prepared to receive a second set of recommendations from the athletic council tomorrow with a view to settling the chronic ill at the university, the matter of faculty control of athletics tended to dwarf more sensational "evidence" uncovered during the regents' probe into the muddled situation.

When the athletic department submitted its first suggestions, it asked that it be given full control of athletics and that the athletic director be given greater power.

TELL 'EM REGENTS.
Harold Wilkie, president of the board of regents, responded: "The regents should tell the athletic board in no uncertain terms that the regents still run the university."

The regents contended the statutes gave them alone power to hire and fire faculty members and that the personnel of the athletic department was included.

Declaring the council removed a "real disappointment" the regents promptly rejected it and entered upon their own investigation. The hearings were fired by sensational charges and counter-charges.

With authoritative sources, however, revealing that the council had reaffirmed its previous stand in its second report, a showdown is now expected.

MEANWELL ABSOLVED.
Dr. Walter E. Meanwell was absolved in the original athletic council report of charges he encouraged attempts to oust Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach.

During the regents' investigation, Spears was accused of ordering coffee "snikes" with liquor and of forcing injured players into scrimmages and games. He denied the accusations.

Under Wisconsin procedure, the faculty controlled athletic council makes recommendations to the regents who may approve or reject them.

PEGGY WATTLES SCORES UPSET

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 13.—(P)—In rain and wind that caused five contestants to default, three favorites and one upset won the 18-hole tournament to the semi-finals of the British colonial women's amateur golf tournament.

All four matches in the consolation flight were settled by defaults while Jean Bauer, of Providence, R. I., runner-up to the medalist in qualifying, shot a 21st hole of her 18-hole match. Mrs. Solomon's four putts on the final green more than counterbalanced Miss Wattles' bunkered tee shot.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City veteran who won medal honors, meanwhile was defeating Mrs. E. F. De Yibus, also of Kansas City, by the one-sided score of 7 and 5, and Helen Detweiler, Washington, D. C., another favored contender, was putting out Mrs. St. Sterrett, of Hutchinson, Kan., 2 and 1.

In tomorrow's semi-finals Mrs. Hill plays Miss Detweiler and Miss Bauer meets Miss Wattles.

Clay Touchstone Is Chick Holdout

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 13.—(P)—Clay Touchstone, veteran right-handed pitcher, returned his 1936 contract—unsigned—to the Memphis baseball club today, and described himself as "a holdout, you bet." The Chick contractors went out yesterday.

"If I don't deserve a raise this year, I don't know the reason why," Touchstone fumed. "Name off the guys who won 22 games last year, and see how many there were. And I'd have won more if I hadn't run into tough luck with my hand right when I was going the hottest."

BACK TO SPAIN.
A year later he is back in Spain. It is 1537. He had seen Italy conquered. He had helped in the looting. He had survived the crossing of the American continent.

He is, perhaps, a little cracked. He becomes something of a pest at the court of Spain. He protests against the cruelty of Spain to the Indians.

It gets you, somehow, thinking his feet may have trod there across the very spot where you rest after a morning's hunt.

To the end of his days he is about the Spanish court, protesting Spain's ways in the New World. He becomes something of an old windbag, stopping people to tell them of the days he was a god in the New World in the land.

You all but doze in the sun, thinking about him. And hearing the old ghosts come back in the sound of the wind in the trees. It seems impossible all that should happen here in this peaceful land.

THE SIESTA ENDS.

The siesta ends. The cooking things are packed. The horses are untied and the hunters mount. We move off through the pine forest. The dogs race, making wide casts, and finally one freezes into a point.

The birds get up and the handlers cry "mark!" Mark them down. We move on. It is the last hunt. Tomorrow there is a golf tournament. But today there is the Georgia forest and the wind that smells of rain to come. You ride on, seeing the dogs, the mind busy with the wandering of De Vaca where now your horse picks his way carefully over the logs.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN

No. 41

Orando had never laid eyes on Leopard Men in the full regalia of their order. These leopard skins and talons of steel were calculated to terrify their opponents, and many a man, other wise brave, had been held motionless by the mere sight of them.

But Orando was a warrior, with a duty to perform. He would die. Of that he was certain; but he would not count his death in vain if he could avenge his friend Nyanwagi, who had been slain by the Leopard Men. Orando took firm stance, prepared to fight.

Now the foremost of the Leopard Men crouched to spring in the manner of the beast they imitated. Then he leaped forward at Orando's throat. But before his claws touched the warrior, another figure, flying through the air, struck him down.

Even as he fell to the ground, Tarzan's knife sank once into the flesh of Orando's attacker, and the Leopard Man was dead. But the three companions of the fallen fell swooped down on the fearless Jungle Lord, brandishing their deadly talons of steel!

Dogwood Festival Plan Lauded By Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright

Prominent Woman Sees Indication, in Enthusiastic Support of Fete Program, That "Atlanta Spirit" Is Again Coming to Fore.

The Atlanta Dogwood Festival movement is an indication that the Atlanta spirit is coming again to the fore, in the opinion of Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, who yesterday discussed the week of entertainment to be held in Atlanta April 19 to 25.

"It is a gratifying thing to see all Atlanta enthusiastically rising to the active support of the Dogwood Festival idea," said Mrs. Arkwright. "For two reasons, one that the festival itself can be of such tremendous value to the city, the other that this movement marks the renewed energy of that spirit which has for so many years been such an important factor in pushing Atlanta ahead."

"So I am delighted to see the quick response that is pouring in to the festival offices, garden clubs eagerly offering their help, volunteering to work, assuring Mrs. Cooney they will have floats in the parade; prominent firms and individuals gladly helping to underwrite the $25,000 needed to assure first-class entertainment and bring a great influx of visitors; individuals from all parts of Atlanta and every walk of life volunteering their services in one way or another.

"It is a splendid thing, and renews my pride in my Atlanta citizenship."

The Atlanta Dogwood festival is being directed by Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, Hugh Donaldson, of Chicago, has been retained as consultant director because of his experience during A Century of Progress. A commission of 161 prominent citizens has been appointed by Mayor Ker, honorary chairman of the festival, and work is going forward rapidly toward the perfection of every detail.

Condition of Auto Is Vital Factor In Safety of Modern Road Travel

How is the general "health" of your automobile?

Is it good enough to stand the rigors and hazards of modern driving?

Will one of its important parts suffer an attack and collapse in a crucial moment?

Will your car figure in a so-called "accident" with death or injury as the result?

The necessity of keeping brakes, tires, lights, steering gear and other important parts in perfect shape cannot be stressed too strongly and has been commented on frequently by The Constitution Safety Council in its warnings against death and injury on Georgia's streets and highways.

The plan of semi-annual automobile inspection, as put into effect in Connecticut, with the commendable results obtained in that state, was brought to the attention of the Safety Council yesterday.

Huge Job Worth While.

More than 350,000 motor vehicles are inspected twice each year in Connecticut, the huge job being undertaken by the state's department of motor vehicles with the hope of reducing traffic accidents caused by defective mechanical equipment.

Under the direction of Michael A. Conner, commissioner of motor vehicles, a system of outdoor inspection stations has been set up in the principal cities of the state. Four of these are located in the larger cities during the entire year, while others are shifted to cover 13 smaller cities and towns for shorter periods.

At the end of 1935, of the total number of cars inspected, more than half had to be rejected because of deficiencies.

Less than 135,000 cars had passed the inspection and 151,901 had been refused clean bills of health.

Reasons for the rejections were: Brakes, 77,624; lights, 79,652; wheel alignment, 38,050; and miscellaneous, 18,287.

How would your car stack up under such a test?

LIBRARY SERVICE WILL BE EXTENDED

Rural Committees To Benefit by New Youth Administration Project.

Library service will be extended to many rural communities now without this advantage, under a National Youth Administration project announced yesterday by Dr. R. B. Paty, NYA director for Georgia.

Development of the plan will provide part-time employment to many boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 26 from relief families, at one-third the WPA security wage rate.

Mrs. Fort E. Land has been appointed supervisor for the project. Young people employed on the project will be assigned to collecting, classifying and cataloging books contributed by individuals and organizations interested in the development of library service.

Civic, patriotic and religious bodies are being requested to donate books to build and supplement present libraries in rural sections of the state. While any books that meet usual library standards are acceptable, Mrs. Land and her co-workers are interested especially in fiction suitable for boys and girls. An appropriate book plate has been designed to carry the name of the donor of each book.
